Extended Defense Program Includes Civil Aviation Survey.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
WASHINGTON, April 29.—President Roosevelt said today that American naval vessels were not barred from entering combat zones and strongly reiterated that American patrols would go as far as may be necessary for the defense of the Western Hemisphere.

He made this statement at a press conference a short time after Admiral Harold R. Stark, the chief of naval operations, had said that at some points the patrols were operating as much as 2,000 miles offshore. The President remarked that that depended on where you measured from.

Seeks Planes Data.
At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters:

That he had requested Secretary Jones, of the Commerce Department, to institute a survey for the purpose of determining quickly how many civilian airplanes and of what types could be bought for the defense of democracy. He hoped a substantial number could be acquired.

That there probably would be an announcement soon concerning the transfer of Coast Guard vessels to the Navy, a step taken usually only in time of war.

That he was considering price control legislation but was uncertain as yet whether such action would be recommended to Congress.

Expresses Surprise.

The President expressed surprise at what he considered misinterpretations of his original announcement concerning the patrols, which are now coming the Atlantic (and the Pacific, too, Stark said) for Axis submarines or other Axis vessels for the purpose of reporting their presence to authorities at Washington and to vessels carrying war supplies.

He had mentioned, he said, that in 1939 the neutrality patrol was operating as far as sea as 1,000 miles from the Maryland coast. This did not mean, he made it clear, that the present patrols would be limited to any such distance, and he said repeatedly that they would go wherever it was necessary that they should for the protection of the Western Hemisphere.

Addressing a defense luncheon of the United States Chamber of Commerce on "The Navy," the chief of naval operations indicated in an impromptu address to his prepared address that generally patrol vessels were operating about half way across the Atlantic.

"I wish I could talk about convoys," he told his audience. "I'd like to tell you about our patrols three thousand miles out from the high latitudes in the Antarctic to the equator in both oceans."

Asked to explain this statement after he had finished speaking, he told reporters that 2,000 miles was a better approximation than his extemporaneous 3,000.

Stark also said that naval construction was running ahead of schedule.

Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, introduced today his resolution to require congressional approval before the President could order convoys.

Secretary Jones also spoke at the chamber meeting and estimated that the cost of defense preparations and lease-lend operations would raise the national debt eventually to $30,000,000,000, "even allowing for paying as much of this extraordinary cost from current taxes as our economy can stand."

Two Developments Bring Hope To Harassed Welfare Systems

Workers Advised Not To Resign Because of Changes.

By LUKE GREENE, Constitution Staff Writer.
MACON, Ga., April 29.—Georgia's present crisis in its Department of Public Welfare was paraded openly today before the State Conference of Social Workers, resulting in two major developments which held out some hope to harassed county welfare departments that have been thrown into turmoil with the change of administrations. These developments were:

1. Advice from two merit system experts that state welfare employees should not resign merely because of political change, since they might stand a chance of remaining in their present jobs when and if the merit system is installed in the State Welfare Department.

2. Indications that the Georgia Association of County Commissioners, which meets next week in Augusta, would take up the question of augmenting funds of county departments whose administrative expenses have been slashed by the economy program of Governor Talmadge.

The proposal that county commissioners help those counties in dire need of funds to carry on their program was submitted at a closed luncheon meeting of

Army Plans Greatest Maneuver In Peacetime History of U. S.

Fall Operations in Carolinas To Involve 400,000 Men in Mass Movements; Complete Mechanized Divisions Will Participate.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 29.—(UP)—Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum, commander of the First United States Army, tonight announced the largest Army maneuvers in peacetime history of the United States—involving 400,000 men—would be held next fall.

The maneuvers will be held in a 4,800-square mile area along the North Carolina-South Carolina border in October and November, General Drum said in an announcement issued jointly with Governor J. M. Broughton, of North Carolina.

The gently rolling terrain of the section chosen, the general said, is almost ideally suited to the type of maneuvers planned—mass movements of all types of land and air forces. The 400,000 troops, he said, include complete mechanized divisions who will put into practice lessons learned from the European war.

Two entire armored divisions will be tested thoroughly over the sandy terrain, which encompasses the Pee Dee and Wateree rivers. General Drum said the two principal streams in the area were a major factor in choosing the site.

The maneuver area extends from Fort Bragg, N. C., largest artillery training post in the world, to Fort Jackson, S. C. The two posts will be bases for opposing forces during the maneuvers.

Bulk of the troops to engage in the maneuvers will be from the eastern seaboard, from Maine to Georgia, with additional men from Alabama, Tennessee and other states. For most of them—a large part of them draftees—it will be their first actual field experience.

Largest previous maneuvers involved 95,000 troops and were held last year in northern New York command of General Drum.

The big immediate job of the boards was to produce men," General Hershey said. "We are now over the hump insofar as men are concerned, and we have sufficient blanks to complete the classification. So if the local boards have some time on their hands, they can go right down the list and classify everybody."

U. S. Indicts Churchill Asks Oil Firm Head For Debate on In Stock Fraud War's Conduct

Joseph Smitha, Atlanta, Accused by Jury at Gainesville.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
GAINESVILLE, Ga., April 29.—The grand jury in United States district court here this afternoon returned an indictment containing 10 counts, charging violation of the federal securities act and mail fraud statute, against Joseph H. Smitha, former president of the Advance Oil Company, whose principal offices were in Atlanta and which was placed in receivership in August, 1939, according to the indictment.

The indictment charged that Smitha and his associates made false representations, pretenses and promises to certain persons, too numerous to mention, 19 of whom were named, in order to obtain money and property for their own use. The alleged victims named were H. L. Airlie, Frank M. Boozer, J. W. Burgess, L. E. Cox, U. H. Davenport, H. Glenn Segars, F. D. Carrard, J. P. Ginnell, J. H. Hardin, C. R. Hazen, Prince A. Hodgson, R. L. Johnson, J. E. Leger, J. P. Maddox, J. F. Reid, L. W. Smith, James H.

Draft Boards 'Peace' Basis Get Permit To Is Offered by Classify All Japanese Paper

399,336 Registrants in Georgia May Get Blanks Soon.

Permission to proceed with classification of all draft registrants put Georgia draft boards to work on a big scale yesterday.

The permit will probably mean that the 399,336 draft registrants in Georgia will soon receive their questionnaire and be classified. State officials estimated that complete classification can be finished by July 1.

Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, said last night in Washington that permission for completion of the classification had been sent out to all draft boards now that the government had enough questionnaires printed to take care of all men registered for the draft.

Heretofore, local boards had been permitted to hold distribution of questionnaires to 50 per cent or less of the total number registered.

The big immediate job of the boards was to produce men," General Hershey said. "We are now over the hump insofar as men are concerned, and we have sufficient blanks to complete the classification. So if the local boards have some time on their hands, they can go right down the list and classify everybody."

Receipt of the latest instructions by local draft authorities late yesterday caused considerable speculation as to whether or not the Army planned to step up the training of soldiers.

Boards in the state have so far already classified approximately 30 per cent of their registrants, both white and Negroes. Of this number 5 per cent have been placed in Class I-A.

The order from Washington to state headquarters said the men not placed in Class II, III, and IV would be considered as "registrants awaiting classification."

They will be given physical examinations as new calls come out from Corps Area headquarters. Boards cannot speed up the rate of examining registrants because Army regulations provide that a registrant must be re-examined if his examination was made 60 days before he reports for duty.

DEFEND BY SAVING—Here are the new United States defense savings stamps which go on sale tomorrow in Atlanta and throughout the rest of the nation. Upper stamp is $5 denomination. The lower left is $1 denomination, while lower right is 10-cent denomination. Purchase of these stamps at the post office will help defray the cost of rearming the United States.

U. S. Defense Bonds, Stamps Arrive for First Sales Today

Post Offices To Handle Denominations From 10 Cents to Five Dollars; Banks Share in $25-$1,000 Offerings.

First of the new United States defense savings bonds and defense postal savings stamps arrived in Atlanta yesterday—to be placed on sale tomorrow in this city and throughout the entire country.

The stamps bear the words "America on Guard" and an engraving of the famous statue of the Lexington "Minute Man." Stamps will go on sale at the new and old postoffice buildings, as well as classified substations of the postoffice, but the bonds will be on sale only at the new and old postoffices, the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, and the four member banks of the Atlanta Clearing House Association, which include the First National Bank of Atlanta, Citizens and Southern National bank, Fulton National Bank of Atlanta and the Trust Company of Georgia.

Aimed at reaching the smaller investor who wants to buy a government bond on an easy payment plan, the new series of postal savings stamps sell at 10 cents, 25 cents, 50 cents, $1 and $5.

Each purchaser of a stamp higher than 10 cents will be given free of charge an attractive pocket album in which to paste his stamps until he has enough to buy a $25 bond or one of higher denomination.

Bonds are in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000, all of which are sold for 75 per cent of their maturity value, and all of which mature in 10 years.

The defense bonds may be purchased for cash at $18.75 and in 10 years will be worth $25. To spread investments widely among all the people of America, a limit of $5,000 has been set on the amount of these bonds to be bought by any one person in one year.

Two additional bonds, for larger investors, who can buy up to $50,000 worth annually, have been issued also by the Treasury Department, but these will be sold only through banks and by direct mail from Washington.

Move Viewed As Cutting Off Nazi Supplies

Transportation of All Goods Will Be Strictly Regulated.

By THE UNITED PRESS.
MOSCOW, April 29.—Shipment of any war material through the Soviet Union was forbidden tonight by a decree promulgated by A. I. Mikoyan, foreign trade commissar.

The decree specifically listed such goods as munitions, aircraft parts and accessories, machines and tools for making munitions, explosives and poisons.

The transit of other goods will be regulated strictly and permitted only by special authorization or under terms of trade agreements.

The question of shipping war material and supplies across Russia to Germany has arisen repeatedly during the war. Great Britain particularly complained against the possibility that American oil-drilling machinery, cotton and other goods sent to the Soviet Union might find their way to Germany, or at least release an equivalent quantity of Russian goods to the Reich.

Reds Strengthen Western Front.

By The Associated Press.
Although Russia has insisted her recent nonaggression treaty with Japan was not directed against Germany, the reports that the trans-Siberian line has been closed to transit of war materials indicates further moves to strengthen the Soviet's western front facing Germany's Balkan war machine.

Soon after signature of the Japanese pact, Soviet Siberian troops which had faced the frontier of Japanese-dominated Manchukuo were reported moving west. Russia banned civilian travel on the trans-Siberian road to May 3, presumably to give soldiers the right of way.

Barring shipments of material on the long road from Vladivostok, Russia's Pacific port, tends to support by negation British charges that there have been blockade leaks to Germany via Japan and Russia.

Transhipped Goods.

Peruvian cotton recently purchased by Japan was said by Lima exporters to be headed for Germany by way of Russia, and at the same time there were reports in Shanghai that Japan was transshipping goods, including oil, to Germany by way of Russia.

Even U. S. oil and cotton shipped to Japan has been reported destined for Germany.

Britain has been reported asking the United States to intercede with Russia on the blockade leaks and the recent lifting of the American moral embargo on war goods to Russia was viewed in some quarters as a move to win the Soviet's co-operation in the blockade.

Recent events in the Balkans have brought about a strain in German-Russian co-operation established by their trade treaty and subsequent nonaggression pact immediately prior to the outbreak of the war.

When Germany invested Russia

Aliens Warned On Wheeler, Nye

BELVIDERE, Ill., April 29.—(AP) Circuit Judge William L. Pierce suggested today to aliens in a citizenship class in his court that they "tear up" any printed matter they might receive quoting Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, outspoken critic of the administration's foreign policy.

"I charge that Senators Wheeler and Nye (Gerald P. Nye, Republican, North Dakota) are attempting to drive a wedge between the American people," said the 72-year-old jurist, in addressing the class.

Opera 'Faust' Rare Treat to Sellout Crowd

Second 'Met' Performance Surpasses First; 'Lohengrin' Tonight.

By EUGENIA BRIDGES HARTY.

The most glamorous "Marquise" in Atlanta's operatic history succumbed to the witchery of a beguiling "Devil" last night in the second performance of the Metropolitan Opera Company at the city auditorium, sold out for months in advance for Gounod's "Faust."

The brilliant cast, commanded from Wilfred Pelletier's magic podium, brought an excited audience the stirring strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" for the first course.

The Metropolitan's second performance far surpassed the first night's promise. Helen Jepson, as the heroine of Goethe's immortal legend, also went to Heaven in the hearts of native music-lovers, while the realistic and virile singing of Ezio Pinza, as "Mephistopheles," inspired repeated acclaim, as did Charles Kullman's smooth handling of the title role, in which he showed new skill.

As Mr. Kullman had only been heard before locally in concert, his fans were unprepared for his fine dramatic ability. His voice was warm and true, and his high notes expertly sustained in the many beautiful arias. His duet with Miss Jepson in the second act seemed to have inspired the singers as it did their listeners.

In addition, the "Faust" fans had three delightful surprises in the supporting cast. For Helen Olheim's exquisite voice reliably cloaked the role of "Siebel," while Richard Bonelli, as "Valentin," won an appropriate ovation. Thelma Votipka also used the part of "Marthe" to give ample expression to her many talents.

And what the boss of the big show (Edward Johnson) called "an intelligent, good-looking and well-dressed audience," gave them all a lavish hand. Gratefully the old-timers gazed at colorful sets, becoming costumes and at "Faust's" perfect Marcel wave. The twin blues of the hero and heroine's outfits were as easy on the eyes as were their wearers.

The chorus work was well done both vocally and dramatically, with the ballet adding an extra bit of "gala" to the evening. Lilian Moore and Joseph Levinoff (the latter having proved his prowess at the rumba Monday night) were the competent leaders of the dance.

In great contrast, tonight's offering by a pretentious Met said to interpret a Wagnerian opera. In the epic of the swan knight, "Lohengrin," the vocal celebrities will include Lauritz Melchior, Elizabeth Rothberg, Norman Cordon, Kerstin Thorborg and Leonard Warren.

Mr. Warren as "Alfio" of Monday night has already given a sample of the velvety quality of his baritone eloquence. Consequently, at 8 o'clock tonight there will be many fans to greet him at the city auditorium.

Charles Beach Nolte Is Dead at Age of 55

CHICAGO, April 29.—(AP)—Charles Beach Nolte, 55, president of the Crane Company, plumbing supply manufacturers since 1935, died today.

A native of Mattoon, Ill., and a mechanical engineer, Nolte also was president and a director of Crane Company of Mexico, Crane, Ltd., Montreal; Canadian Pottery, Ltd.; Warden King, Ltd., and chairman of Trenton Pottery Company.

He married Maude Alice Bacon, of Champaign, Ill., in 1911 and they had two children, Margaret Alice and Richard B. Nolte.

SINGS FOR KIWANIS—Miss Annamary Dickey, who was in "La Boheme" here last year with the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang for members of the Kiwanis Club yesterday. Miss Dickey attended the luncheon as guest of Leidy W. Shehee, acting president of the club (left). Other guests were Edward Johnson, general manager of the Met, and Frank St. Leger (extreme right), musical secretary.

Story of the Opera:

By EUGENIA BRIDGES HARTY.

Here is the cast of characters and a synopsis of the story of the opera, "Lohengrin," which will be heard tonight at the auditorium. The curtain rises at 8 o'clock.

Lohengrin.

(In German.)

King Henry Norman Cordon
Lohengrin Lauritz Melchior
Elsa of Brabant Elizabeth Rothberg
Telramund Herbert Janssen
Ortrud Kerstin Thorborg
The King's Herald Leonard Warren
Conductor, Erich Leinsdorf

ACT I.

On the banks of the Scheldt, near Antwerp, Elsa of Brabant prays for a champion. For she has been accused by Telramund and Ortrud (who covet her estates) of slaying her brother. And to her comes the knight of her dreams, Lohengrin. Arriving in a boat drawn by a swan, he comes to defend her from the charge.

King Henry, the supreme court in these parts, orders a fair duel. Thus Lohengrin fells Telramund, sparing his life. The knight then asks Elsa to be his bride, making her promise that she will never ask him his true identity.

ACT II.

Outside King Henry's castle, Ortrud and Telramund plot Elsa's downfall. As Elsa enters Ortrud begs her charity, and enters the castle with her. As daylight dawns the bridal procession begins. A herald announces the King's decree that Telramund is banished. The bride appears in full regalia but is tempted by Ortrud to ask her groom's identity. At her lover's plea, however, she refuses to question him. And together they enter the minster.

ACT 3.

Scene 1—The bridal chamber. After the ceremony Elsa, alone with Lohengrin finally, is increasingly inquisitive. She demands to know his name and from whence he has come. As she questions him, Telramund and four nobles attack him. She shrieks in warning so that he kills Telramund and four nobles attack him. But he warns her that their happiness is at end, for her curiosity has betrayed him.

Scene 2—The banks of the Scheldt. In the final scene of the drama, Lohengrin reveals his name and takes his departure in a boat drawn by a dove. For Elsa has lacked the faith to accept her hero unquestioned. The knight, however, restores her brother, whom Ortrud's spell had transformed into a swan. Thus evil is subdued by the prayers of the knight of the Grail. Elsa, nevertheless, falls lifeless as the curtain goes down.

Spinach Sentenced To Federal Prison

The United States government yesterday arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to federal prison 90 cases of spinach.

The government said it was bad. Complaint against the spinach was filed by Captain F. A. McCortney, quartermaster of CCC, District B, at East Point. There being no demurrer filed on behalf of the spinach, justice moved swiftly.

The sentence to federal prison also carried with it the stipulation the spinach should be fed to the prison pigs.

The United States has led the world in output of chemical research reports for 10 years, having gained supremacy over Germany in 1930.

Fugitive Pastor On Way to Prison

The Rev. Charles A. Higby, the traveling evangelist who for 28 years was a fugitive from an Iowa prison, was on his way back to prison last night and the completion of a 12-year sentence for killing his bride of 18 months back in 1912.

He was arrested Saturday in the Atlanta post office by city officers, upon a tip from North Carolina authorities. Yesterday Iowa detectives arrived to claim him, and hustled him by train back to the state penitentiary in Cedar Rapids.

Higby preached in Atlanta from 1916 to 1927 and founded several churches here. As a Free Methodist preacher he travelled mostly in the south.

Two Atlantans Huge Basso Named by U. S. Is Favorite To Advise Court Of Met Stars

Attorneys Will Assist in Forming Criminal Procedure Rules.

W. Paul Carpenter and F. M. Byrd, Atlanta attorneys, have been named to an advisory committee to make suggestions relative to rules of criminal procedure for the United States court for the northern district of Georgia, it was learned yesterday.

The committee was named by District Judge E. Marvin Underwood and District Judge Robert L. Russell. Judge James Maddox, of Rome, was named chairman. Other members are Judge Boyd Sloan, of Gainesville, and Walter Sanders, of Newnan.

The committee will meet Friday morning in the federal building here, Judge Maddox said yesterday.

Worst Massachusetts Forest Fire Is Raging

GROTON, Mass., April 29.—(UP)—The worst forest fire in the history of the state swept through Middlesex county tonight and weary firefighters battled grimly to save towns lying in its path.

The flames were brought under control this afternoon after destroying more than 100 square miles of woodland, but a shift in the wind rekindled the fire and it soon raged out of control again. It swept through 600 acres of adjacent woodland and threatened summer cottages at Lost Lake, the town of Forge Village, Graniteville and a section of Tyngsboro.

Melchior, Here For Met Role, Describes Hunt

Giant Tenor Thrilled by Alaskan Shooting; Has Lohengrin Part.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Lauritz Melchior, the man mountain of the Met, gets as great a thrill out of bringing down a bear as he does out of bringing down the house.

The six-foot-four opera star, who flew into Atlanta last night from New York for his appearance at the Municipal Auditorium tonight in "Lohengrin," smiled a mighty smile as he told about a recent hunting trip in Alaska.

"I usually go to my native Denmark for my vacation," he said, "but due to conditions abroad I could not go this year. I have spent several weeks hunting in Alaska. I shot a bear. A tremendous bear. I got a big kick out of it. But then, I have always loved to hunt."

The tenor, considered one of the greatest Wagnerian singers of all time, also revealed that the Alaska natives named a lake for him.

Accompanied by Wife.

He was accompanied on his trip here by his wife, the petite and charming woman whom he affectionately called "Kleichen," or "The Little One."

After their arrival at the airport the Melchiors went to their suite at the Atlanta Athletic Club and then went for dinner to the home of two old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hecht, of 191 Peachtree Battle avenue.

"They just telephoned us and said they were coming out," said Mr. Hecht, "and so they took potluck with us."

The potluck turned out to be a dinner of Viennese dishes for the Hechts' other dinner guests were Irene Jessner, soprano, and Herbert Janssen, baritone, both stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Mrs. Janssen.

No Political Questions.

Melchior took his place at the table and fell to with great appetite. His host disclosed that eating does not interfere with Melchior's singing, that he can stow away a tremendous dinner and then go on the stage with no vocal difficulties, unlike many other singers.

Of European affairs, Melchior said:

"Please, no political questions. Art and politics do not go together. Art is unpolitical—always has and always will be. But I do hope peace comes to the world soon. It is terrible to think of men killing each other. I have friends in all the European countries. And there they are, fighting each other."

Melchior is a former officer in the Royal Danish Guard and a Knight of Dannebrog, the ribbon of which he wears in his lapel.

"William S. Knudsen has the same decoration," he said, pointing to the ribbon.

Miss Jessner is a native of Vienna and has sung in that city, Prague, and other European centers. She has been in this country five years. Janssen, also a singer of Wagnerian roles, is a native of Cologne, Germany. He and Miss Jessner will make a South American tour in May.

New Auditorium Floor Is Favored

Mayor LeCraw, a first nighter at the Metropolitan Opera Company's opening in Atlanta, yesterday was nursing a stiff neck caused by straining to see as well as hear the stars and announced he will advocate a $10,000 sloping floor to eliminate strain before the opera returns for its 1942 show.

"Before opera comes next year we're going to have that floor, long said by music lovers," LeCraw said. "I made up my mind to that last night when I had to crane my neck into all sorts of contortions to see the play."

Mrs. Harold Coolidge, president of the Atlanta Music Club, which has appealed vainly for the new facilities for several years, said the new floor LeCraw favors the floor is splendid.

"If we can get all members of council to sit through a show in seats like those the mayor had last night we'll get the floor before next spring," she added.

Candidates Face Quiz by Mayor

Fulton and DeKalb county candidates for the Georgia legislature will run the gauntlet of a questionnaire propounded by the mayor and general council when they offer for the 1943 session of the general assembly, it was announced yesterday.

During a discussion of city problems with a group of council members, Mayor LeCraw said he is preparing a questionnaire to be answered by all candidates. The questions to be propounded will relate to "vital measures affecting the future growth and prosperity of the city and the protection of its citizens from excessive governmental costs."

LeCraw said the city is absolutely at the mercy of the legislature, and that the local government's stability depends on electing local representatives who are familiar with and sympathetic to the city.

Inspection Set Tomorrow for 128th Squadron

Air Corps Officers To Review Unit at 7:30 O'Clock.

Inspection of the 128th Observation Squadron tomorrow night will be held in the Dinkler room of the Ansley hotel, Major George Finch, commander, announced last night.

The inspection of the National Guard unit, to be held at 7:30 o'clock by Air Corps officers, will precede formal recognition by the War Department.

Enlistments in the squadron still are being accepted, Major Finch announced. Although based at Camp Gordon where a $300,000 home will be built for it, the squadron will train at Camp Forrest, in Tennessee, following induction into the United States Army.

Southern Coal Mine Opening Delayed Again

Producers and Union Fail To Agree on 'Details.'

By The Associated Press.
Southern coal producers and the CIO United Mine Workers' Union, seeking to perfect a temporary arrangement for the reopening of southern bituminous mines, recessed last night without reaching an agreement at Washington.

The failure of the negotiations, it was indicated, will mean that only the northern soft coal mines, the outlying districts and the so-called "captive" mines will be ready to resume production today or tomorrow after a shutdown since April 1.

The southern operators and the union representatives were in almost continuous conference from 2:30 until 11:20 p. m. trying to reach an understanding on the temporary application of a $1-a-day wage increase pending final negotiation of a new wage contract.

They were reported in disagreement over wage rates for the higher-paid classifications such as mechanical loaders and conveyors.

Delay 'Regretted.'
As the conference recessed until today, John L. Lewis, union president, told newspapermen:

"We regret the delay and consider it unfortunate that we are unable to order the southern mines back to work at the same time as the north."

L. T. Putman, spokesman for the operators, said they also regretted the delay. He reported that the conference had spent their time trying to complete the details for the reopening, but that "to date, we have been unable to complete all these details."

Lewis and the northern producers concluded a temporary agreement during the day under which the northern mines will resume production as speedily as possible, paying the coal-diggers the new $7-a-day basic wage rate previously negotiated.

Reopen Tomorrow.

The temporary agreement gave northern mine owners the signal to reopen the mines and it was generally understood that the bulk of production probably would not be under way until tomorrow.

The agreement with the northern operators was placed on a temporary basis since union spokesmen expressed the hope that when a contract was completed with southern operators, northern and southern producers could be reunited in the Appalachian coal wage conference, broken April 11, when the southern producers withdrew.

HONORED AT TEA—General Julius Franklin Howell, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, was guest of honor yesterday at the Governor's mansion at a tea given by the Fulton chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. Talmadge, wife of the Governor, is shown with the General, who is here on an official visit.

Meanwhile, an agreement was worked out in New York yesterday to keep the Pennsylvania hard coal mines in operation beyond tonight's contract expiration date.

A contract covering about 100,000 hard coal miners expires at midnight and three weeks of negotiations between the operators and the CIO United Mine Workers have failed to produce an agreement. The operators and the CIO United Mine Workers agreed, however, to continue work until May 10 while the negotiations continue. The operators agreed to make any new contract that might be worked out retroactive to May 1.

The anthracite miners are asking a $1 a day increase for day workers, a 20 per cent increase for contract workers and two weeks' annual vacation with pay.

Some Miners Return.
Hard coal is used principally for heating homes, and has no such widespread industrial use as soft coal.

Soft coal miners began trickling back to work in western Pennsylvania last night, and the United Mine Workers' office in Pittsburgh said all mines in western Pennsylvania could reopen today. A spokesman for the United States Steel Corporation announced in Pittsburgh that all of the company's 25,000 miners would return to the pits. Some West Virginia mines are expected to be opened today.

Alabama Still Out.
At Montgomery, Ala., yesterday Governor Frank Dixon urged a wage differential for Alabama's coal mining industry while a spokesman for operators said his group could not meet the $1 per day wage increase granted in the Appalachian region "and remain in business."

Although the operators' representative reported "we are now ready to negotiate a new contract," there was no indication of an immediate resumption of coal mining in this state.

At his press conference yesterday Mr. Roosevelt said he thought the modification of southern freight rates was one thing that would be brought forth in further mediation conferences, but that the modification would not apply to coal alone.

Consideration of the question, he suggested, would open a Pandora's box. Previously, he had indicated he believed adjustments were necessary to alter freight-rate differentials against which the south has complained.

Walker Issues Merit System Defense Plea

Says Board Is Planning To Hold Examinations Early in May.

In defense of the merit system for social workers as set up under the Talmadge administration and which has been under fire of state social workers in convention in Macon, R. M. Walker, of Jessup, Ga., chairman of the Merit Board, yesterday issued the following statement:

"The General Assembly enacted new laws designed to enable the Governor to reorganize the welfare department for the express purpose of promoting the welfare of every meritorious applicant for both employees and those seeking relief through the department."

"Following up the mandatory rules of this law, the Governor has named his Merit Board members and a director of the Welfare Department and a chairman of the state advisory committee."

"The Merit Board and the heads of the Department of Welfare and advisory committee are functioning definitely and strictly in accordance with the rules and regulations of federal government, and these authorities propose to follow definitely the law as laid down by the Federal Social Security Administration."

May Examination.

"The present merit board plans to hold an examination early in May for all welfare workers in Georgia. An examination was deemed advisable because in checking the records of the previous administration it was found that all examinations were incomplete and inadequate, which is calculated to leave criticism upon the administration. In some cases it was found that examination papers were filled out in the homes of employees."

"Under the new merit system all welfare workers will be required to take examinations, including written tests, oral tests and a performance test, in order to determine all the necessary qualities of applicants. These applicants will be placed on permanent standing under the merit system. Hon. J. A. Boatright, who has been appointed, and who has been approved and approved by federal authorities, will supervise all examinations and any applicant desiring examination may contact him."

Wide Variance.

"The merit board believes it advisable to hold the examinations to test the qualifications of welfare workers for the further reason that it has been found that in about every county in the state there are pensioners now receiving widely different amounts of assistance. For instance some re-

Intoxication Alone Voted No Cause for Arrest

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 29. (P)—Florida's senate voted unanimously today for a bill to make an intoxicated person immune from arrest unless he creates some disorder.

The late Senator Fred P. Parker, who died Sunday, sponsored the measure, explaining that he favored it because he once had a farmer friend who was arrested for intoxication while peacefully sleeping in his automobile and as a result had to sell his 40-acre farm to pay his fine.

ceive as low as $3 a month and others as high as $30 a month. Blind children receive from $3 to $45 per month. There is some question in the minds of the merit board, as well as the general public, as to why there is this wide difference in monthly payments to eligibles.

"It is difficult to conceive why any meritorious person would object to taking an honest, reasonable and necessary examination in order to establish, once and for all time, his or her qualifications. The examination papers will be his or her safeguard in the future when these papers are properly made out and filed with the certification of the merit board."

Expect Complaints.

"Of course the merit board expects to hear of 'squawking' from a few welfare workers, perhaps by reason of their unequalled status and because of salary reductions and the elimination of extravagance in the administrative costs. The cost of administration has already been reduced by 50 per cent by Governor Talmadge, and the savings from this overhead has been transferred to the old people, making it possible to place 18,000 more of them on the rolls."

"Those welfare workers who are afraid of the merit system while it is functioning honestly and squarely for the best interest of all should withdraw from the field and open the way for the hundreds of good men and women now ready to join the system, as we have it set up, and assist us in full co-operation."

"It is the purpose of the merit system to see that every qualified applicant, both for employment in the system, and those seeking assistance as old-aged and dependents, shall have full and adequate hearings and receive full compensation or assistance according to the merits of each case."

Bombay Seeks To Curb Rioters by Whippings

BOMBAY, April 29.—(P)—The government decided today to invoke the whipping act in an attempt to stop Moslem-Hindu riots. Today, one person was killed and six injured in Bombay and seven persons were injured at Cawnpore.

Two Developments Bring Hope To Harassed Welfare Systems

asserted. "They can't afford to."

Morris Tift, Dougherty county commissioner, pointed out his county already was augmenting the salaries of welfare workers who had taken cuts under the new administration. It was brought out that in many instances counties now are having to expend more on welfare work than they did before the enactment of a recent law cutting each county's participation from 10 to five per cent.

Commissioner Tift cited a case in which an educated welfare worker had been cut from $100 per month to $32.50 per month and was still required to use her automobile.

He also expressed considerable concern over the announcement of R. M. Walker, of Jessup, that welfare workers would have to stand new merit examinations.

The commissioner said the merit examinations had caused untold worry to many workers in his county and voiced the hope their records on the old examinations would stand. He said he did not think they should be required to take new examinations which they might not stand a chance of passing.

The welfare workers pulled no punches in firing questions on the state situation at the two merit system experts who conducted a forum this morning on "The Merit System Principle and Its Relation to Public Welfare in Georgia."

At the outset, the experts, Louis E. Hosch, consultant of the American Public Welfare Association, and James Mitchell, acting director of the Civil Service assembly, pointed out they were at the meeting to discuss the merit system generally, since they were not acquainted with Georgia's situation.

This did not stop the social workers, however. They referred sarcastically to efforts to keep the questions "on a high plane" and bolted headlong into the problems that have been raised by the present administration. At the end of the discussion they flatly refused to give their names, insisting it might imperil their jobs with the state.

From the audience came this question:

"In view of the present status of the merit system, state employees sometimes find themselves at a loss as to whether they should resign or face the possibility of being fired. If the merit system is established, which would be better for them?"

Hosch agreed with Mitchell they should not resign because of a change in administrations. He said the question of whether they held their jobs would depend largely on the kind of merit system that was set up—whether it was "fair, honest and 100 per cent above-board."

Hosch went on to explain incumbency must be protected until the system is established, and that employees who might then be facing discharge would have the right of appeal.

He said it was not the ordinary thing to make a clean sweep of employees, emphasizing that a tremendous turnover in staffs would be disastrous. He added he had known only one state to do this, Rhode Island.

A member of the audience from another part of the room shot another question:

"In view of the present economy program, what about the scale of salaries?"

Hosch answered this by saying it was expensive not to have a merit system that would give security to the jobs of employees.

This injected the farmer into the discussion. A Salvation Army leader arose and asked loudly:

"I understand that, but how are you going to sell that idea to a bunch of farmers?"

He then found himself in an argument with Mrs. Annette Suarez, of Cuthbert, who was leading the discussion. She defended the farmer, saying she thought he could recognize what was good administration as well as anybody.

Mitchell insisted it was ridiculous from a standpoint of business to employ workers for two years and dismiss them at the end of that time. He emphasized the merit system was here to stay.

He was generous in his praise of Congressman Robert Ramspeck for the part he had played in developing the Civil Service system.

The expert emphasized the philosophy that "to the victor belongs the spoils" was fast passing out of existence.

In opening the discussion Mrs. Suarez traced the history of the Georgia Department of Welfare from its beginning in 1919. She said it suffered a gradual slump until 1939, when "a ray of light broke" when it seemed probable that employees would be chosen on a basis of merit.

"I clung to the hope that a better day was coming," she said, pointing out that at the end of the Rivers administration the registry for the merit system was ready to be set up.

Since that time, she continued, there has been the question in state and county offices as to "what has become of the merit system."

Meanwhile, the committee on resolutions was going forward with the work of drafting a resolution on the merit system which will be presented to the conference for adoption tomorrow.

As to how strong this resolution will be no member of the committee would hazard a guess. The press was excluded from the meeting of the committee today when members insisted the discussion should be secret.

The Rev. H. S. Cobey, of Albany, chairman, said the resolutions would not be made public until tomorrow.

Other members of the committee are Harry M. Chester, of Atlanta; Elsie Page Tucker, of Atlanta; Thomas W. Dickson, of Atlanta; Mrs. C. A. Vernoo, of Athens; Joseph Popper, of Macon; Mrs. L. E. Radney, of Colquitt; Miss Frances Steele, of Atlanta; Miss Sarah B. Hall, of Statesboro, and Miss Ruth Drane, of the State NYA office.

ROAD BEING PAVED.
SYLVANIA, Ga., April 29.—(P)—Grading and paving on a two-mile stretch of the highway from Sylvania to Millen was begun this week. Construction of a 350-foot steel and concrete overpass on the Savannah and Atlanta railroad is included in the project. WPA is doing the work. Screven County Commission Chairman W. G. Sharpe said completion of the project would form a paved road connecting Millen and Sylvania.

Roosevelt May Ask Congress For Powers of Price-Fixing

Legislation May Be Designed Merely To Give Legal Sanction to Leon Henderson's Schedule To Curb Inflation, However.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(P)—President Roosevelt may ask congress for price-fixing powers in an effort to forestall any runaway price inflation, it was disclosed today.

SCHOLAR—Sol Ruden, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Ruden, of 886 Washington street, S. W., has been named to the honor list at Cornell University College of Engineering for the fourth consecutive year.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters that Leon Henderson, the price stabilization official of the defense program, was coming to the White House to discuss with President Roosevelt the possibility of such legislation. Later Henderson arrived and had lunch with the chief executive, but declined to talk to reporters. Possibly, however, the legislation would be designed to give more definite legal sanction to Henderson's price-curb campaign.

In an effort to prevent any "dangerous upward spiral of prices in general," Henderson has issued maximum price schedules on six commodities. One of the most important of these schedules froze steel prices at the level prevailing in the first quarter of this year.

There has been little definite word from government officials as to exactly how such orders would be enforced. They have contented themselves with saying that they expected industry would co-operate. Some congress members, notably Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, have contended that President Roosevelt acted without authority when he established the price administration.

Dallas Prison Leg-Breaking Is Investigated

Three State Agencies Consider Conditions at Camp.

Three separate state agencies had under consideration yesterday the treatment of convicts in Dallas prison camp where voluntary leg-breaking by inmates has been reported taking place spasmodically for more than a year.

Members of the Senate and House Prison Committees went to the camp, called "Little Alcatraz," and interviewed the warden and other officials.

Chairman Clem Rainey, of the Prison Commission, said his group held a hearing Monday at which Warden Q. E. Worthington, and the camp physician, Dr. J. I. Simmons, gave testimony.

Rainey said the findings of the board would be made public later.

Report to Board. Likewise, Senator E. L. Almond, of Monroe, chairman of the upper house committee, said the results of yesterday's visit to the camp would be reported to the Prison Commission and then made public.

The immediate point of inquiry dealt with assignment to rock-breaking in the prison yard of three men whose legs still were in casts.

A photograph of the trio was published last week, causing Warden Worthington to admit, after first denying, the men were being so employed.

Both the warden and camp physician were said to have testified the prisoners were able to do the work.

Women Voters Complain. H. B. Smith and W. R. Blease, members of the house committee, sat with the prison board, and also went yesterday with Almond's group to Dallas.

A demand that he ascertain why prisoners broke their own legs was sent Saturday to Governor Talmadge by the Georgia League of Women Voters through its president, Mrs. J. C. Blalock.

The latter pointed out that the league last year had urged a full inquiry after one youthful convict died at Grady hospital of alleged ill treatment, and six others had broken their legs.

Worthington was appointed in January by Talmadge to succeed A. W. Clay as warden. He is credited with having abolished leg "picks" and improved conditions in other respects. Three men, he said, had broken their legs since he took office.

Ruden Continues Honors Career

Sol Ruden, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Ruden, of 886 Washington street, S. W., has been named to honor list of Cornell University's College of Engineering for the fourth consecutive year his father was informed yesterday.

Young Ruden is an honor graduate of Boys' High school where, as a senior student, he won one of the two Cornell scholarships offered to outstanding high schools students in a region consisting of five southern states.

He is majoring in chemical engineering at Cornell, where he will finish a five-year course next year. Throughout his previous four years there he has consistently maintained an average of above 85.

Storm Helps Desert Troops Stop Italians

Outnumbered RAF Hampers Axis Transfer of Supplies.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 28.—(P)—British troops and planes, aided by a furious sandstorm which has been raging in the western desert since Saturday, have halted the eastward advance of three Italian-German columns attempting to follow up the recent capture of Salum, informed sources said today.

All three columns were brought to a standstill within five miles of Salum, just inside the border of Egypt.

The RAF was outnumbered by Italian and German planes in this area, but still dominated the desert skies yesterday, successfully hampering the Axis service of supplies, officers said. They reported the Germans apparently are relying heavily on aircraft for bringing up fresh troops.

Airport Bombed.
Heavy casualties were inflicted on such air-borne Axis soldiers at the Libyan airport of Benina yesterday, the RAF middle east command announced. It was the second destructive raid on that base in as many days.

German soldiers "closed up like pen knives and toppled to the ground" when the RAF attacked Benina, a Canadian captain-pilot reported in an eyewitness account released by the air ministry.

"We'd completed our reconnaissance and were coming back over Benina when we were confronted by what looked like a hundred Junkers transports lined up wingtip to wingtip," said the Canadian, whose name was not given.

"Too Good to Miss."
"It was too good to miss; but it is not our job, to attack so I called up the crew and asked what they thought about it. 'Let's wreck 'em, sir,' they said. So from about two and a half miles up I pointed the nose of our ship into a deep dive."

"There were groups of them—German soldiers gathered about on the landing ground. We dived to about 50 feet and flashed right along the line of aircraft, giving them all we had."

"One aircraft burst into flames, smoke poured from others. The soldiers were too startled to raise their rifles and they just closed up like pen knives and toppled to the ground."

The RAF pilot returned to his base, the air ministry said, without a scratch to his crew or plane.

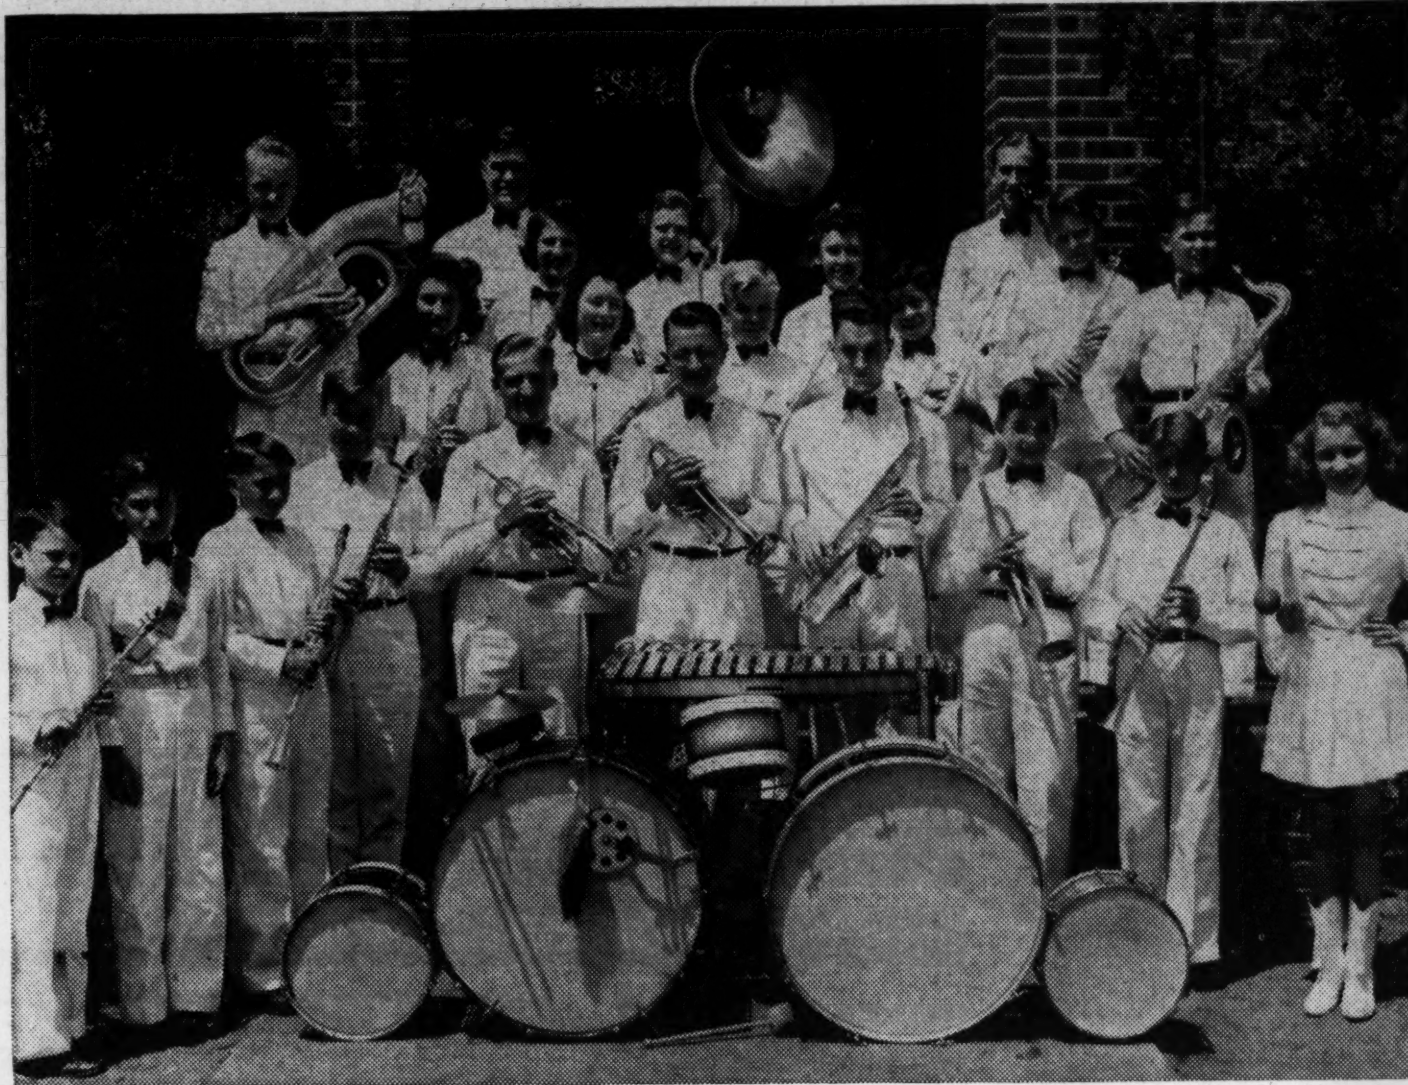

On the Ethiopian front, the British claimed capture of 2,000 Italians and 400 native troops, also quantities of guns and other war material, in the seizure Sunday of Dessie.

Corpus Christi Smelter To Boost Zinc Production

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(P)—Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, announced today that the American Smelting & Refining Company would erect a zinc smelter at its own expense in the vicinity of Corpus Christi, Texas, which would increase production facilities for electrolytic zinc by about 24,000 tons annually. Jones said the increased production was "made necessary by reason of defense orders."

He said that Metals Reserve Company, upon recommendation of the Office of Production Management, had contracted to purchase from American smelting 50,000 tons of special high grade electrolytic zinc at 8 1/4 cents a pound.

Gwinnett Band New Tobacco Of 31 Pieces Tax Protested Festival Entry By Southerner

One of First County Units in State To Play Friday.

A 31-piece band formed by students of three schools in Gwinnett county will be an attraction of the third annual Greater Atlanta Musical Festival, Friday night, May 16, at Grant Field, it was announced yesterday.

The Gwinnett county band was organized last year by Dr. R. C. Edwards, of Chamblee, and is composed of boys and girls from the Lawrenceville, Buford and Norcross schools. It is one of the first county bands in the state and was the only county band entered in the state music festival at Milledgeville this year.

Approximately 20 bands will put on the biggest music show of the year at the Grant Field festival, which is sponsored annually by The Constitution. It is free to the public.

a successful fight against syphilis. Its fine results are now in danger, however, unless immediate action is taken.

"With the establishment of cantonments and naval bases, prostitution tends to increase in the surrounding area. An increase in the activity and number of prostitutes means an increase in venereal infection, as they and other promiscuous persons are the great spreaders of these diseases."

"There are effective ways to prevent such things. The efforts of the American Social Hygiene Association to show municipal authorities how to curb prostitution in training areas have been uniformly successful. In Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas during last winter and in Washington, Wisconsin, Minnesota and New York during the summer, the results of these efforts have been gratifying to military and civil officers alike.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(P)—New taxes on such staples as sugar and coffee were advocated by a tobacco manufacturer today in opposing a treasury plan to double the present 18 cents a pound levy again his product.

The manufacturer, Harry P. Taylor, of Winston-Salem, N. C., was one of several witnesses before the House Ways and Means Committee who made special pleas in connection with proposals to raise $3,600,000,000 of new revenue.

"There are plenty of products," he said, "that are not produced by farmers," as tobacco is, that are not now subject to any special tax. He recommended exploration of their possibilities before stiffening the rates on tobacco.

Carl H. Wilkin, of Sioux City, Iowa, representing the Raw Materials National Council, told the committee that there would be more income to tax if congress would guarantee 100 per cent parity prices on 10 "basic crops" which he did not specify.

COMMONS ANNOUNCE NEW CANADIAN TAXES.

OTTAWA, April 29.—(P)—Creation of new taxes and heavy increases in those already existing, including a 15 per cent basic income levy and 3 cents a gallon on gasoline, to meet the high war costs were announced today by Finance Minister J. L. Halsey.

In his budget message for the 1941-42 fiscal year, he said the taxes were designed to raise $300,000,000,000 of the $1,500,000,000 required, the remainder to be obtained by borrowing.

There will be new taxes of 20 per cent on motion picture admissions and 5 per cent on race track wagers.

Hygiene Association's Program Lauded by Dr. Boland.

Strong endorsement of the program of the American Hygiene Association to protect Army camps from syphilis and gonorrhea was contained in a letter made public yesterday by Dr. Frank K. Boland, head of the Atlanta Red Cross. The association has under way a national campaign for $200,000.

Other Atlantans taking part are Dr. T. F. Abernethy, state health officer; Mrs. Murdock Ecken, S. R. Greenblatt, Dr. James R. McCord, Walter H. Rich and Kendall Weisiger.

"Atlanta boys have already been called to camp," said Dr. Boland, "and soon many more will be drafted. They will go to camps situated in areas far from home. As they prepare to defend us, we must defend them against the dangers of exposure to syphilis and gonorrhea."

Man Confesses Slaying of Wife, Five Children

MOBILE, Ala., April 29.—(P)—A plea for mercy trembling on his lips, Esker Washington Gibson, 32, today signed a confession that he beat his wife, Oletha, 32, unconscious with a chair, poured kerosene over the sleeping forms of his five children and set fire to their house last Thursday night. Gibson's confession was announced at 11 a. m. by State Solicitor Bart B. Chamberlain, who formally charged him with the murder of his wife and children and moved to have the county grand jury called into immediate session to take action in the case.

Gibson told how he quarreled with his wife over a letter, how the quarrel was punctuated with "hugs and kisses" by his wife, and how "we fought all over the kitchen."

Gibson was arrested Sunday afternoon following mass funeral for his wife and children, Robert Esker, 7; Huey, 6; O'Neal, 4; Mary Margaret, 3, and Mary Eleese, 7 months.

As he finished penning his name at the bottom of the confession, Gibson looked up at those surrounding him and said simply: "I beg for mercy."

NOW IT'S LIGHTER! IT'S CRISPER! DON'T FAIL TO TRY THE IMPROVED "GOLDEN SOFT" KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

NOW YOU'LL ENJOY JOINING THE "REGULARS"

THE CEREAL that helps so many Americans keep "regular" is now a regular treat!

IT'S DOUBLY DELICIOUS! It's made of finer quality bran from one of the world's softest wheats. Bright as shreds of gold, the improved ALL-BRAN is now crisper, lighter, more delicate! Ask your grocer for it today.

For years you've known KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN as a natural laxative cereal. Now try it for its delicious taste as well! Kellogg grain buyers have discovered an extra-soft, extra-delicate wheat that is used for the finest pastry flours. And from this special grain comes a bran of exceptional quality.

Put through Kellogg's cooking and toasting ovens, this bran came out bright as shreds of gold, and lighter, crisper, more delicious than any we had used in 20 years of making ALL-BRAN.

And now the improved and more delicious ALL-BRAN is at your grocer's. If you or other members of your family are troubled with constipation due to lack of proper "bulk" in the diet, try this better ALL-BRAN. It is just as effective as ever—but doubly delicious. But be sure to eat it regularly; it takes a little time for best results. Make ALL-BRAN your steady breakfast cereal, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation due to lack of "bulk."

ALL-BRAN is made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. It is sold by grocers and served in restaurants everywhere. Ask for it today.

FROM ONE OF THE WORLD'S SOFTEST WHEATS

THE BRAN used in the improved "golden soft" ALL-BRAN comes from a special wheat that is grown for the finest and most expensive pastry flours. Now ALL-BRAN is doubly delicious! Crisper! More delicate! Try it today.

High Loan Rate Requested for Naval Stores

Valdostan Asks Inclusion of Turpentine, Resin in Program.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(P) H. Langdale, of Valdosta, president of the American Turpentine Farmers' Association Co-operative, called today for high loan rates on naval stores, and also inclusion of turpentine and resin in any legislation to aid farm prices.

Testifying on farm bills before the House Agriculture Committee Langdale said:

"Gum turpentine farmers cannot continue to exist unless the returns of their commodities are increased along with the returns on other agricultural commodities."

He said nearly 400,000 persons from North Carolina to Texas depended on the industry and many now were confronted with a low standard of living.

William Williamson, assistant attorney-general for South Dakota, warned against writing an amendment into existing farm law defining intrastate regulation of farm commodities as competitive with interstate commerce, and Robert Taylor, of Adams, Ore., representing the Eastern Oregon Wheat League, urged legislation to raise the price of farm commodities to "parity"—a level which would place them on a par with 1909-14 returns.

"In this emergency, people want plenty of food on hand, but they shouldn't expect farmers to produce it below cost of production," Taylor said.

New Peachtree Road Church To Be Erected

$225,000 Methodist Edifice To Seat 850 Persons.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.
The congregation of Peachtree Road Methodist church last night laid plans for the construction of a new $225,000 church building to accommodate a membership that has grown from 19 in 1925 to 955 today.

The new building will be located on Peachtree Road at Buckhead on a lot 300 by 600 feet, recently purchased at a cost of $18,000.

Can Seat 850.
It will be of brick, painted white, and will have a seating capacity of 850. A Sunday school building adjoining will have a capacity of 1,200. A new brick parsonage will be built at a cost of $8,000. Work will begin on the parsonage at once, and will begin on the church within 60 days, with the latter edifice to be completed by January 1.

With $21,666 in the bank as the nucleus of the building fund, a drive for money will begin under the leadership of R. A. Calvert, chairman of the building fund. J. L. Respass will be chairman of the building committee.

New Members.
The Rev. N. C. McPherson, who in the last 18 months has received 326 persons into the church, is the present pastor. Others have been the Rev. E. H. Wood, Rev. C. A. Norton, Rev. T. H. Shackleford, Rev. R. J. Broyles, Rev. Nat. G. Long, Rev. T. Z. B. Everett, Rev. A. Lee Hale and Rev. W. G. Davis.

Among the speakers at the building rally were Bishop Arthur J. Moore, Mr. Respass, Mr. Calvert, Guy H. Wood, W. R. Bentley, Wallace Cowan, James Cox, Mose Hayes and Ed Callaghan.

Woodmen Begin Meeting Tonight

Quadrennial State Camp and the State Association of the Order of Modern Woodmen of America will meet here tonight in a closed session at the Henry Grady hotel with Judge Joseph E. Bryson, of Augusta, state president, presiding.

Local camp of the order will act as official host, led by Consul W. W. Poland and Mrs. Blanche M. Smith, secretary. At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the business session will begin in the ballroom of the hotel with State Consul A. L. Birardin, of Valdosta, and State Secretary W. V. Blackwell, of Augusta, presiding. Senator John A. Smith, of Talbotton, and Dr. A. W. Davis, of Warrenton, will speak.

James W. Smith will open the executive session and the concluding banquet will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow.

Talmadge Eyes Students' Plea With Sympathy

Will Place Protest on Red and Black Policy Before Regents.

Governor Talmadge indicated yesterday some sympathy with students protesting faculty regulations that brought a walkout of staff members of the Red and Black, student newspaper at the University of Georgia.

Reading to newspapermen a letter from Frank L. Gunn, president of the senior class, the Governor commented at one point "that seems fair—I think that's right."

In replying formally to the letter, Governor Talmadge was non-committal about his official attitude.

He simply informed Gunn that he would be "glad" to call the matter to the attention of the State Board of Regents at its next meeting, scheduled for May 8. Gunn, who said he was expressing the views of the "principal leaders" of the student body, attributed the dispute in large part to a gossip column conducted by the student paper. He said this column, on occasion, "overstepped the bounds of decency and the faculty had just cause for complaint."

Emory Wheel, Red and Black Highly Rated

Only Two College Papers in South Named 'Pacemakers.'

Two college papers in Georgia, the Wheel, at Emory University, and the Red and Black, of the University of Georgia, were named yesterday as 1941 "pacemakers" by the Associated Collegiate Press.

They were the only college papers in the south, and among 10 in the nation, selected for that honor.

Calvin Kytte is editor of the Wheel, which also won the "pacemaker" rating in 1939. Stanford Smith was editor of the Red and Black during the fall term, when its issues were judged in the contest.

The Agnes Scott News, edited by Elaine Stubbs, of Fort Myers, Fla., won a place on the All-American list for the second consecutive year.

The Technique, at Georgia Tech, and the West Georgian, at West Georgia College, Carrollton, were rated "first class." Second class rating went to the Watch Tower at Wesleyan College, Macon, and the Campus Canopy, at Georgia State Women's College, Valdosta. The Stormy Petrel, at Oglethorpe, won third class rating.

Time To Resign

Whatever the motivation behind Charles A. Lindbergh's pro-Hitler and defeatist attitude, his resignation as colonel in the Army Air Corps Reserve should be welcomed generally.

There are two possible causes for the Lindbergh espousal of the Nazi cause. Either he believes in that system of government, admires Hitler and sincerely wishes to see him victorious, or else he is being used as a dupe by propagandists, Nazi agents and representatives in this country.

If the first cause is the real one, he certainly does not belong in the American Air Corps, or any other branch of the armed service of the country. That is self-evident. If the second cause is behind his peculiar views, if he is a mere dupe, he is displaying such a lack of common-sense and ordinary intelligence that he is not fit for a commission in the Air Corps.

How any man of reasonable intelligence could listen to the response which Lindbergh's words brought at that recent New York meeting and still call himself a loyal American is beyond understanding. The loudest applause greeted those portions of his speech which asserted Britain was already defeated, thus proving that his hearers were German sympathizers and seekers after Nazi victory.

It should be remembered that this country, by popular vote and through the words of its leaders and the actions of congress, has pledged itself to the guarantee of British victory, of Nazi defeat and of the defense of America. In view of this, any man who glorifies in the approval of fanatic crowds who applaud each suggestion of Nazi victory can be neither more nor less than an enemy of the cause of this country. As such, he has no place in the armed forces of the nation.

If, as said in his letter of resignation, it was President Roosevelt's criticism of his attitude which caused that resignation, it is evident that the President's voiced irritation has, at least, served one good purpose.

At Fort Lewis, troops play baseball in their gas masks. It is but a step from this to stationing the empire in a raid shelter.

Too Drastic

While heavy increases in taxation are inevitable, in order to meet the tremendous costs of the national defense program, and while no loyal American will object to paying his fair share of this cost, it is the primary duty of congress to see that the new, or increased, levies do not fall too heavily upon any one group of the population.

The fairest tax is, of course, that which exacts the needed money from every purse in equal ratio with the ability to pay. This is the ideal which congress will seek in deciding upon the sources from which the required $3,500,000,000 in added revenue is to come.

The proposal by representatives of New York business groups, made before the House Ways and Means Committee, for a drastic lowering of exemptions in personal income tax returns does not appear to be fair. It would impose too large a proportion of the new taxes upon the little man, the citizen of small earning capacity. Even sponsors estimate that $2,000,000,000, or more than half of the desired additional revenue, would thus be raised from the lower income brackets, which is far too large a proportion for such low incomes to pay.

When at the same time the same sponsors urge that an increase in corporation income tax rate, from 24 to 30 per cent, be offset by abandonment of the existing capital stock levy, the unfairness to the little man is accentuated. There is no proposal to relieve him of a present tax load to offset the higher burden proposed.

Under the plan, exemptions for single persons would be lowered from $800 to $500, for married couples from $2,000 to $1,000 and the exemption for dependents cut from $400 to $250. At the same time it is suggested that the basic rate on taxable income be increased from four to six per cent.

The little man in America wants to pay his share of the defense cost. Whatever additional taxes are finally enacted he will meet cheerfully and gladly. Whatever the price it will be small for the safety of America.

But there is no reason why the man with an income of ten dollars a week, or the married couple with but twice that amount, should be made to contribute so heavy a proportion of the needed money. A more equitable distribution of the burden can, undoubtedly, be found.

In the line of his employment, a tough Nazi gunman gets around to as many places as the American tramp athlete.

Happy Ending

There is every reason to believe that the coal strike is at an end. Acceptance by the southern operators of the Roosevelt proposal for immediate reopening of the mines should mean that there will be no more such sabotage of the national defense effort.

Under the terms of the proposal, arbitration over differences between the operators and the mine workers union will continue, with whatever final agreement is reached made retroactive to the reopening date. In addition it is reported the operators have agreed to an immediate increase of $1 per day in rates of pay.

This is the same increase granted by the northern operators, thus leaving the only ground for further dispute the differential which has long been in existence on pay rates of the two sectional groups. Southern operators have contended that a freight rate differential in favor of the north is such that bankruptcy would inevitably follow should they pay as high wages as in the north.

Nothing better illustrates the contention of the south, in all such industrial freight differentials, that it is the workers and small consumers who, inevitably, pay this inequitable tribute to the industrial east and north. Freight differentials are nothing but an ancient scheme to levy an indirect tariff against the south for the benefit of eastern industry and, as such, are totally unfair and obnoxious in a supposedly united country.

Parallel in effrontery to the freight discrimination is the argument that lower costs of living in the south justify lower wages. The differences in living costs are far smaller than the differences in wage rates and, in any event, to lower a man's earning power for such a reason is tantamount to claiming all the blessings that a kindly providence has bestowed upon the south should inure to the benefit of northern industry instead of to the individual southern worker.

It is to be hoped that, now that the injustice of the freight differentials on coal have been so dramatically revealed to the nation, the Interstate Commerce Commission will quickly remove them. Then there will be no further logical basis for any difference in wage rates for mine workers north or south and a cause of prolonged friction will thus be removed.

In any event, the happy ending of the mine shutdown presages a better day in management and labor relations throughout all defense industry. For the example set by the southern operators in unequivocally accepting the President's proposal for resumption of mining operations should have strong influence in other defense industry.

If the coal operators can continue work pending final arbitration of differences, surely any industry may do likewise.

The southern operators are to be commended for their patriotic action and this latest development should do much to prevent future work stoppages, from any cause, in the defense program.

Though his hosts win in the southeast, the Fuehrer's photos show him as cheerless as ever—probably from getting up morning after morning on the wrong side of the channel.

In a good-will deal, our young Doug Fairbanks is shipped to South America. We had even thought of throwing in a right fielder and two pitchers and keeping Carmen Miranda.

Georgia Editors Say:

HOW NEAR TO WAR?
(From The Albany Herald.)
Congressman Bob Ramspeck, of Georgia, is quoted as saying the United States will be in the war when Hitler "loses patience"—when he decides that this country can do Germany less harm on a basis of declared war than as Britain's barker on a basis of "everything short of war."

Of course, this country is already in the war in all respects except the use of weapons. We are not fighting Germany with land, sea or air forces, but we are supplying Britain with everything we can get to that beleaguered empire—ships, planes, tanks, guns, munitions, machines, food, lumber, iron, steel, and a good deal more. The United States has just reached an agreement with the Danish government under terms of which this country will occupy and fortify air and naval bases on the coast of Greenland. Denmark is one of the small countries of western Europe which Nazi forces seized in 1940 and has since occupied, but its sympathies are not with its conquerors, as the agreement affecting Greenland clearly shows.

The United States needs the rest of the year to make itself powerful enough to defy any combination of Old World powers with New World ambitions. We are sending aid to Britain, Greece, Yugoslavia and China while building our own defensive machinery. We have just commissioned our most powerful battleship, and other great naval units are under construction. We are building the machines and training the men to give us the strength to make democracy in the western hemisphere safe.

If anybody knows when an open break between the United States and Germany is due it is Adolf Hitler. But even he probably does not know.

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAY G. HAYDEN.

LINCOLN AS MODEL WASHINGTON, April 29.—There was more in President Roosevelt's characterization of Charles A. Lindbergh as the counterpart of "Vallandigham" of Civil War days than an expression of the irritation which the transatlantic flyer's isolationist activities have created in the administration circle.

Mr. Roosevelt frequently draws on the experiences of his presidential predecessors to illustrate his own motives or actions, and as pertains to the handling of congress and conflicting surges of American public opinion he more than once has indicated that Abraham Lincoln is his favorite model.

By his linking of Lindbergh and Vallandigham the President revealed that, like Lincoln in 1861, he is measuring his actions today as much in terms of public sentiment at home as the military and naval developments abroad. His problem is not only what Britain needs, but how far and how fast the country can be brought along in support of his aid-to-Britain policy.

THREE MONTHS' DELAY For nearly three months after the fall of Fort Sumter began the Civil War, Lincoln did not call congress into session because, until the secessionist members were unmistakably weeded out, he could not be sure of a majority in support of the Union. Even so, congress debated for months the question of whether the President's initial defensive actions should be approved, and his suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and others of his acts never were accorded congressional indorsement.

Clement L. Vallandigham, a Democratic congressman from Ohio, was the leader of the northern "copperhead" obstructionists in this first Civil War session. In addition to branding Lincoln a "usurper," he contended the south never could be conquered and that the effect of the war would be political and economic ruin, north as well as south.

Vallandigham was beaten for re-election in November, 1862, but this only by a gerrymander which added a strongly Republican county to his district. His arrest and sentence by a military court-martial to imprisonment for the period of the war, a few months later, created such a popular outcry that President Lincoln commuted the sentence to banishment behind the Confederate lines.

CONTINUED PROPAGANDA After a brief stay at Wilmington, N. C., Vallandigham went to Bermuda, and thence to Canada, where he continued his propaganda efforts quite as effectively as though he were in the United States. During his banishment he was an unsuccessful nominee of the Democratic party for governor of Ohio, and early in the summer of 1864 he returned without hindrance to Chicago as a delegate in the Democratic national convention which nominated General George B. McClellan to oppose President Lincoln.

One of Mr. Lincoln's most remarkable state papers is a letter he wrote to Erastus Corning and other New York Democrats who had protested the arrest of Vallandigham. In this Lincoln confessed that "in my discretion, I do not know whether I would have ordered the arrest of Mr. Vallandigham," but still he assumed full responsibility for this action once it had occurred.

"Must I shoot a simple-minded soldier boy who deserts, while I must not touch a hair of a wily agitator who induces him to desert?" Lincoln asked. "I think that in such a case to silence the agitator and save the boy is not only constitutional, but withal a great mercy."

Denying the charge of the New York committee that Vallandigham was prosecuted "for no other reason than words addressed to a public meeting in criticism of the course of the administration," Lincoln said:

"If there was no other reason for the arrest, then I concede the arrest was wrong. But the arrest, as I understand, was made for a very different reason. Mr. Vallandigham avows his hostility to the war on the part of the Union; and his arrest was made because he was laboring, with some effect, to prevent the raising of troops to encourage desertions from the Army, and to leave the rebellion without an adequate military force to suppress it. He was not arrested because he was damaging the political prospects of the administration or the personal interests of the commanding general, but because he was damaging the Army."

"Under cover of 'liberty of speech,' 'liberty of the press,' and 'habeas corpus,' they hoped to keep on foot amongst us a most efficient corps of spies, informers, supplies, and aiders and abettors of their cause in a thousand ways."

Recalling that the New York committee had referred to themselves as "Democrats" rather than "American citizens," Lincoln said: "I would have preferred to meet you on a level one step higher than any party platform, because I am sure that from such more elevated position we could do better battle for the country we all love, than we possibly can from those lower ones where, from the force of habit, the prejudices of the past, and selfish hopes of the future, we are sure to expend much of our ingenuity and strength in finding fault with and aiming blows at each other. But since you have denied me this, I will yet be thankful for the country's sake that not all Democrats have done so."

NOT YET SUMTER There is, of course, a far cry from the position of Vallandigham in 1863 and the position of Colonel Lindbergh and his fellow isolationists now. The Rubicon that was Sumter has not yet been crossed. Americans are not in the fighting and, until they are, there is no bar, legal or moral, against American citizens contending they should not be sent to fight. But there can be little doubt that President Roosevelt visualizes his situation, if not of today, of tomorrow, as closely paralleling that which President Lincoln faced.

A Good Story.

This morning I have for you a story with a happy, and good, ending. So unusual that it seems worth bringing to as many attentions as possible. So, please, read on.

It begins "way back in November of last year," was the day preceding the Florida-Georgia Tech football game in Atlanta. A busload of college boys was halted by a blow-out, at Indian Springs. And, while tires were changed, the boys, naturally exuberant, rather took charge of Indian Springs.

Among the gang of boys must have been some with tendencies toward vandalism. For an historical marker on Highway 42, which passes through the village of Indian Springs, was damaged. The marker indicated the site of a rock where McIntosh, Indian chief, ceded a vast territory to the United States. Incidentally, McIntosh was assassinated later that year.

W. B. Powell, secretary of the Butts County Historical and Archeological Society, wrote about this damage to the marker, to President J. J. Tigert, of the University of Florida. She attributed the damage to the mischievous "football players," because they were "running riot" at the time. There were no eyewitnesses. She informed President Tigert these markers cost about $50 each, exclusive of the standard.

Not Members

Of The Team.

President Tigert referred Mrs. Powell's letter to Coach Tom Lieb, of the university, and noted that it was the first complaint against the conduct of Florida football players in 13 years, while the university has on file innumerable letters from hotel managers and others praising the boys for fine conduct.

On November 26 Mrs. Powell received a letter from Coach Lieb stating the football squad had traveled to and from Atlanta for the game via the Southern Railway, so could not be responsible for the damaged marker.

However, on December 7, Mrs. Powell had another letter from President Tigert. He wrote that the director of the Florida band had informed him it was members of the band who had committed the offense. He expressed regret and humiliation that any Florida U. boys should have been guilty of such a thoughtless act, and citizens of the Empire State and the Gate City will experience all the pangs of a great thirst, Saturday the replace the marker and wrote his sincere regrets.

That's Not All.

But wait a minute. The story isn't over.

Just the other day, last Friday to be exact, the Butts County Historical and Archeological Society held a meeting. At that meeting Mrs. Powell reported she had instructed "Doc" Reeves, superintendent of the state park at Indian Springs, to see if it were possible to repair the damaged marker.

"Doc" Reeves had found a local machinist who had welded the broken parts together, installed it on a standard, painted the whole with black enamel and the face of the raised letters with aluminum paint. The entire expense was not over $10.

So the society with unanimous assent voted to return $40 to the University of Florida. Mrs. Powell sent a check in this amount to Dr. Tigert on Saturday morning.

"The action of the band boys in confessing to the damage of the marker is a credit to them, far greater than the small sum of money involved. It will ever stand out to the glory of the boys and the university. The society congratulates you, Dr. Tigert, for playing the game in the right spirit and we could do none less."

How About

The Society.

Of course Mrs. Powell is quite correct in praising the spirit both of the boys of the band, who frankly confessed their fault, and of Dr. Tigert and the university. But don't you think the society itself is due a little laurel for its part in the incident? For there is no doubt it is rather seriously harassed for funds in promoting its worthy work. And $40 is no inconsiderable amount to such a group.

When they returned it they exhibited, it seems to me, a rather fine degree of honesty.

An honorable affair, messieurs and mesdames, all around.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Queer Bird In U. S. Job

TUCSON, Ariz., April 29.—Hal O'Flaherty, the managing editor of the Chicago Daily News, has been appointed assistant to Admiral Heppburn, the Navy's director of public relations, with the rank of lieutenant commander. Mr. O'Flaherty is not an ideologist or Communist but a model T, or primitive, Americanist, and thus will be a queer bird among the forces of press agency which have been recruited for government service in the last eight years and a bit. Moreover, he was not out of a job, but gave up a much better salary to accept the President's shilling, wherein the same difference will be observed between him and the general run of misanthropic failures who have crept into the woodwork of the government under the New Deal to serve their personal grudges against the economic system and the profession in which they couldn't keep step, some of them because they staggered.

Time Magazine, with a weakness for capsuled and insulting characterization, used the word "brawling" to describe O'Flaherty, whose only first flight of which I have knowledge is in an intimate friendship of 28 years was a stout remonstrance against a remark to another journalist in the Adlon hotel in Berlin in 1920. The remark left him no alternative, so Mr. O'Flaherty tagged his colleague out, and that settled that.

In 1914 in Minneapolis, he cracked a beautiful cherry-wood bar, but he and his companions were not brawling. They were singing and beating time on the bar. He used to love to sing songs in saloons and was partial to a ribald Wisconsin college air which began "Minoske, see the badger; you can stroke his tawny hair."

Coachman On Farm

That, however, was mere rejoicing by a robust, ambitious, self-confident young reporter who had worked in a quarry and didn't know his strength. He had also served briefly as a coachman of a farm vehicle near What Cheer, Iowa. This equipage, being loaded with fertilizer from the pile behind the barn, is driven sedately across the field while mechanical arms, operated by gears and chains, hurl nourishment in slow, graceful arcs to the hungry soil. Mr. O'Flaherty set out behind a team of spanking mules, one of which stepped on a ground hornet's nest, arousing the inmates. The mules then ran away while the spreader-arms flailed wildly, and the young driver accidentally achieved distance records which are believed to stand to this day in this event.

In the spring of 1913 Mr. O'Flaherty, employed then as Omaha manager of the United Press, was sitting in a bathtub in his rooming house one morning. The rooming house had left on the wings of a big wind which was famous for a few days as the Omaha tornado. When he had found clothes for his nakedness Mr. O'Flaherty went down town, captured the only wire left standing, and scooped the world for 12 hours. For that he was acclaimed, but before he could enjoy his celebrity his triumph was washed away in the Dayton flood, which drowned out public memory of the Omaha tornado.

The Cries Of London

Mr. O'Flaherty, still a cub, arrived in London in the spring of 1916, and it was there where his tormented shared with him a life of toil and not too miserable poverty on $30 a week in a number of Bloomsbury boarding houses. There, in the sooty, foggy mornings after the long night trick, he would lean out his window and revile the cat-meat man, the lavender woman and the unsightly old woman who could come trudging by when he was trying to sleep, yelling in a dark, deep voice, "Roses! Sweet, lovely roses!" The romance of the ancient cries of London was not irresistible at such hours.

Mr. O'Flaherty returned home in 1917 to enlist in the Army, becoming a pilot second lieutenant just as the war ended.

And when he went back to London with his young bride he discovered to his own consternation, no less than hers, that he had achieved a romantic conquest over a young woman he had scarcely ever seen. During the old London days the young American reporters habitually patronized a cheap Fleet street restaurant called the Wellington, and now, when O'Flaherty returned with his American dream girl there arose from the scullery such a squalling and yowling as you never heard. And then there emerged a red-eyed, sallow little pot-walloper to point angrily at Mrs. O'Flaherty, screaming for all the world, "She ain't 'alf good enough for Am. 'E deserves better than the like of you, Miss. 'E's beautiful, 'E is!"

'E weren't 'alf-bad looking at that, 'E weren't."

Folk Lose Films.

American tourists in Auckland, New Zealand, are among those obliged to forfeit photographic films to the police. Many offenders, unaware of strict wartime regulations, have taken photographs at the Mechanics' Bay air base and on the city waterfront. The Americans photographed liners in port from San Francisco.

new prohibition laws were officially proclaimed in a proclamation by Governor Harris."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Thursday, April 30, 1891:

"New York and Atlanta are determined to suppress the pool rooms. Under a state law the city of New York has closed the pool rooms, and Atlanta has done it by refusing to grant licenses."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE BOAT FROM LISBON NEW YORK, April 29.—We went down at noon to meet the boat from Lisbon. It was, as we say, an experience. There were not too many people there. There were approximately 200 passengers. About that many met the ship.

It was odd waiting. Not many persons at the docks spoke English. They spoke, for the most part, French. A few spoke German. A few spoke Polish.

They stood about, waiting. When, at last, the ship came into the dock, not many showed emotion. They looked very hard. When the ship came in close and the sailors threw out the lines, the voyagers began to lift up babies and to wave. Some climbed on the rail and began to wave.

It was then that people began to cry. They did not sob or make a noise about it. They cried silently, which is the worst sort of crying. Tears ran down their cheeks and their eyes went red. They waved at people they could not see. They just stood there, waving a hand, while the tears ran out of their eyes. They could not see. Not all did this. But most of them did.

On the ship the people crowded to the rail. Those with babies held them up and told the babies to wave. Some of them did. It was a scene the babies will not remember. And that is a pity. It was worth remembering. There is some slight compensation for getting old. One remembers things. That, of course, is not always pleasant. Nevertheless, I would want to remember meeting this ship.

A LOOK BACK One knew that the people had been waiting for weeks or months in Lisbon. Lisbon is the concrete example of purgatory. There one may stand at the docks and look toward the promised land. They cannot see it, but they know it is there, flowing with milk and honey.

This will annoy some. But, I assure you, if you were to go to the docks and say to those people:

"In America there are sharecroppers and tenants who have hookworm and scurvy and other diseases because they do not have enough to eat. In America there are desperately poor people who are the victims of a system. In America there are slums and all sorts of bad conditions, which exist because the people have not thought about them. Do you still want to go?"

And I can tell you that each and every person at the docks in Lisbon would say: "Yes, please let me go. Let me be one of those sharecroppers. Let me be one of those tenants. Let me live in the most miserable room of your slum."

And then, we will assume, you would say, "But it is dirty and cold in winter and hot in summer and there is opposition to those who would help the miserable."

And they would say, "Let me go to your country."

At a dock, waiting for a boat from Europe, one gets the feeling of what Jefferson and Jackson and Lincoln and Roosevelt meant and mean when they talk about the people. Alexander Hamilton once said to Jefferson, "Your people is a great beast." But watching the ship come in to the dock, one knows very profoundly that the people are helpless and patient and possessed of faith.

Voltaire was right when he said if there were no God it would be necessary to invent one. All those people, on the dock and on the ship, had in the back of their minds a prayer to their own conception of God.

NO TIME FOR REALISM

If there were a realist there, his face did not show his thoughts. I saw no one who was saying, "In Lisbon there are hundreds who want to go to America. There is a long waiting list and broken and yet so small, go thundering up into the sky."

Everyone there was looking, peering at the faces along the rail. As the ship got close, those on the deck began to wave. The sailors, in dungarees worn so long they were no longer blue, but white, began to busy themselves, moving about. Lines were thrown. The ship was made fast.

There were mothers and fathers there, waiting for husbands, wives, children. There were sisters waiting for brothers and brothers waiting for sisters.

I tried to think it out. I tried to think that behind all of this, in its very origin, there was a deficiency of iron and copper and other raw materials in one country. And that, because of it, a man came along who began a youth movement which was to make of his young men robots who fought with the greatest of reckless courage to subdue a world for their leader.

It was no good. There was the ship. There were the people on the dock weeping silently. There were the people on the ship who began to laugh and wave and cheer.

The world became very small. It consisted only of the dock and the ship.

People from France, from Poland, from Germany were ready to come ashore to the United States. I found myself thinking, "Well, we have got to keep this country so that people will want to come to it, feeling that here is hope and opportunity." But the gangway was made fast and we went forward to meet the young man whose face we had been seeking among those at the rail.

A Sad Page of History Written Before It Happened

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Professor Hardscrabble's "History of the Second World War," written in 1950, required but a few brief paragraphs to explain the collapse and extermination of Christian civilization. The preface is quoted in full.

"The German claim of racial superiority seemed to be justified. Hitler had organized his nation like a giant factory, in which each individual did to his utmost the thing he could do best. The people sacrificed everything to the cause of conquest."

"Having spent seven years in preparation, while other lands slept, the Germans had an initial advantage which never was overcome."

"They planned each campaign to the last detail, and troops were rehearsed in split-second timing and co-ordination. When the blow fell, and thousands of death-dealing machines roared into action, the concentration of firepower was so devastating that nothing human could stand before it. The victims fought briefly and hopelessly, and then surrendered to escape annihilation."

"But the power of the German military machine was not the only factor in its success. Power can be met and overcome by greater power."

"But the people of other lands seemed stupefied, as though some supernatural force had prepared them for easy conquest. Their leaders were class-conscious and stupid men who thought only of their personal and class welfare, or social theorists who could not think in terms of reality. They acted, but always too late, and again and again the betrayed people wailed the death-cry of democracy: 'Too late and too little.'"

"Military leaders were forced to improvise defenses and fight without preparation or adequate weapons, and the bravest could only stand and die."

"In America, the only land that could have survived, only the few had enough imagination or understanding to realize what was happening.

ALL MUST SACRIFICE TO DEFEAT HITLER

Editor Constitution: I am deeply interested in the preservation of the few remaining democracies of the world; but the large majority of the people do not seem to be interested—but making money. The money-makers have always been found in those movements that prove themselves to be destructive to the nation. Ninety per cent of the people of this country desire England to win the war, but none seem to be willing to give those things absolutely necessary to bring about victory. They want to win, but they do not want to spill any blood.

If England needs the goods the United States is making, why does not the President use the navy and army to assure the delivery? But somebody will say "There is no law." Does Herr Hitler move his army out of German territory onto foreign lands "according to law"? What law? He does it according to "natural law," which becomes effective when "civil law" fails. Mr. Roosevelt is too good a man to do those things that must be done if our democracies of the world are to be saved.

We need, in this emergency, an Andrew Jackson or a Grover Cleveland president of the United States. President Jefferson Davis lost the War Between the States because he was forced to fight it on democratic principles; Abraham Lincoln set the constitution aside and acted according to the circumstances, law or no law; and that is the way we are going to win this war, if it is won by us. It is no time to "consult" the people, for the people do not know what to do. Hitler is winning because he does not consult the people, but tells the Army where to go.

SAYS LABOR COOLING ON AID TO BRITISH

Editor Constitution: Dorothy Thompson and other writers are pointing out the American people do not understand the extreme gravity of the world situation. There is no doubt that there has been, in the last few weeks, a distinct cooling of public sentiment for fast aid to Britain.

I want to put a finger on the very cause of this change. It is not growing strength of counter-propaganda, but confusion in the policy of newspapers. Those papers which cry loudest for fast aid to Britain almost in the same or parallel columns cry just as loud for methods as cruel as ever Hitler dreamed of to curb labor.

Dig into your own columns for the past six weeks. All over the United States thinking workers are asking themselves if to save Britain means to give predatory industrialism the whip hand over labor, why get all het up about saving Britain?

LET'S WEAR "OLD GLORY" ON "AMERICAN" DAY

Editor Constitution: It is not only a privilege but a pleasure to be an American, enjoying a democracy advocating political and social equality, freedom of speech, principles of upright, fundamental truth or doctrine, forming a foundation of stability and confidence. Americans are not subjugated, they have beauty, culture and a prosperous land in which to live.

The proclamation of setting aside a special day to extol the fact that "I am an American" is the greatest observance we have ever celebrated.

On this day, May 18, every true and loyal American should proudly wear "Old Glory" in some shape or form, demonstrating that we pledge fidelity and national unity to America and its principles.

Let's take this opportunity to declare dynamic activities toward preparedness and the protection of our beloved America.

Wear a flag on this patriotic day, show your true colors, celebrating "I am an American" Day and let triumph crown our nation.

Editor Constitution: The editorial in Saturday morning's paper does the southern coal operators a grave injustice, which, of course, is unintentional on your part.

New Air Route From Atlanta To Savannah

Preinaugural Flight of Delta Line Leaves This Morning

Atlanta and Savannah will be connected by a passenger air route via Augusta with the preinaugural flight leaving at 9 o'clock this morning from the municipal airport with officials of the Delta Air Line and guests aboard.

The 21-passenger Delta plane will stop in Augusta, where Mayor J. M. Woodall and other Augustans will board the ship. In Savannah the mayor and a committee of citizens will meet the plane and entertain the passengers. Return trip will be made at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Tomorrow the daily round-trip will be begun by Delta Air Line at 2:30 o'clock p. m., arriving in Augusta at 3:29 p. m. and in Savannah at 4:25 p. m. The scheduled return flight from Savannah leaves at 5:30 p. m., arriving in Atlanta at 7:25 p. m.

The guests will be C. E. Faulk, president of Delta; C. E. Woolman, Delta general manager; Leigh C. Parker, Delta traffic manager; Inspector Reams, Civil Aeronautics Authority; Mayor LeCraw, Lindley Camp, secretary Georgia senate; Charles D. Redwine, president Georgia senate; Councilman Cecil Hester, Frank Shaw, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Councilman Howard Haine, representing The Constitution; Ken Turner, the Journal, and John McDermott, the United Press.

At Augusta, Mayor J. M. Woodall, R. E. Allen Jr., R. L. M. Parks and Robert Swisher will join the flight.

Returning from Savannah, the ship will bring to Atlanta Mayor Thomas Gamble, Dave Atkinson, W. C. Gilbert, J. P. Miller and James H. Cobb Jr.

Pipe Line Bill Will Be Submitted to Congress

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)—Chairman William P. Cole Jr., Democrat, Maryland, of the special interstate commerce oil subcommittee said today he would submit a bill "within a week" dealing with oil pipe lines needed in the defense emergency.

Cole declined to disclose the precise nature of his legislation, but it apparently will be designed to permit the construction of pipe lines which defense officials believe necessary to carry oil to the Atlantic seaboard.

Esposito Brothers' Trial To Be Resumed Today

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—Both sides rested today in the trial of the brothers Esposito, William and Anthony, for the slaying of Alfred J. Klausman in a pay-roll holdup just off Fifth avenue last January 14.

The defense closed its case yesterday. Summations will start tomorrow.

Four Georgia towns have been added by the United States census to the more than 10,000 population list. They are East Point—and you wouldn't have guessed that—Gainesville, Dalton and Moultrie.

But census figures don't tell all. Some towns spread their "city limits" out so far you can drive at 55 m. p. h. a mile or so before you see the first house. Some are more compact.

Atlanta's 302,288 would be more impressive if it took in the suburbs. But, personally, I don't want to be "taken in." Folks who owned the place before I—and the mortgage company—bought it paid for sewers and paving and everything we needed. Which was added to the price. So I don't want to pay city taxes for something I've already paid for.

City fathers, worrying about municipal income, think we should all put up our share. Right! Perhaps! But we can't vote for a councilman. Even if we wanted to. I'd guess own property in the city or pay business licenses and high office rent and all that—and support office buildings and businesses which do pay taxes.

That doesn't go for me—personally. I don't own any in-town real estate. I did. But I don't any more. Which has relieved me of quite a pain in the neck.

All-Day Day

In a little town in south Georgia last week a "petition" was circulated. It asked every merchant to agree to shut up shop at noon Thursdays. That's a popular practice all over the state—though sometimes Wednesdays are chosen.

But one merchant held out. He was going to run his own business his own way. In which case, a principle, he was quite correct.

So that bustled up the arrangement and all the stores will stay open six full days a week.

Who gains? Nobody. Who loses?

A number of wage earners who would like to have an afternoon off and get acquainted with their wives and children.

Time was when "country" stores opened at 6 a. m. and closed at 10 p. m.—if the boss could get rid of the loafers. Did they sell any more groceries or dry goods? Actual sales in that kind of a store could be consolidated into six hours a day or less.

Atlanta groceries—or the kind we deal with—close up on Wednesday afternoons in summer. Sometimes we forget, and that is an inconvenience to us. But there's usually a can of beans in the pantry.

There's absolutely no horse sense in running a business 14 hours a day when eight will take care of it. Except that some competitor refuses to come through. I know where I'd do my trading.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Birthdays are grand things, aren't they? Having been born on April 27, 400 years after Columbus discovered America, I had the joy of observing another birthday last Sunday. Let me tell you some of the gifts I got on my birthday.

The beginners' department in our Sunday School gave me a box of garden seed—beans of every sort, beets, carrots, parsley, turnips, cucumbers, onions, and so forth. What about that for a group of four and five-year friends? And I put them all in the ground Monday. The Primary department, six through eight-year-old friends, gave me a pencil—one of these fancy ones. And the Intermediate boys and girls gave me a pen to match the pencil. The Juniors gave me an array of rock garden plants, and the Junior Union boys and girls gave me a cake with yellow roses on it. Man, man!

From three of the Negro churches of Atlanta came gorgeous baskets of flowers—the Friendship and Wheat Street Baptist churches, and the Central Methodist church. I shall cherish these gifts through all the days.

And among other gifts was a knife from one of my dearest friends—a knife with three blades. I always have loved a good pocket knife. I have a collection of them that date back across 49 years. Remember the old Barlows? And the IXL's? One of the Boy Scout troops in our church gave me a scout's knife several years ago that I prize very highly. I have a knife in my fishing kit that the late J. K. Orr gave me one day down at Homosassa. It was his last trip to Homosassa, and we had fished together all day. Late in the afternoon I hung a big red, and in the long battle with him, I broke my rod, and afterward when I was mending it, Mr. Orr handed me his knife, and said: "I heard Beau Hudson say this was your birthday, and since I haven't anything new to give you, I will give you this knife. George Muse gave it to me many years ago, and now that my fishing days are about over, I will pass it along to you."

Birthdays are grand occasions. I sometimes hear people say they dislike to think of birthdays—that they have quit having them. I never have quite understood that attitude toward birthdays. Life grows fuller and finer with the passing years. "The best is yet to be," as Browning expressed it. Let me take this occasion to thank all the friends who graciously sent me messages of goodwill and encouragement on this birthday. The same to you.

Discusses Census Figures In Georgia and Discovers Four Big New Towns

For instance, Dinkie Dallis, who is moving from an apartment to his home, away out Peachtree road, has had a dozen or so post-cards printed and mailed to friends who live even farther out.

They notify the addressees that Mr. Dallis will be standing out in front of his house every morning, except Sundays, at 8 a. m. He hopes this news will bring regular results.

The other idea comes from the Villa Rica, published, as you might surmise, in Villa Rica. It tells about an organization called the "Co-Workers" whose six members are all workers for the Southern Railway in Atlanta. It has been in existence since 1932, when the six partners invested in an automobile to take them to Atlanta every morning and home after the day's toil is over. Expenses are shared equally.

The "Co-Workers" have worn out three cars and have the fourth pretty well licked. The four speedometers have clicked off 209,000 miles. And without an accident.

Why don't they ride on their own railroad—on passes? Because the accommodation train was discontinued in 1932 and schedules of other trains didn't fit.

Bridges' Testimony Used Against Him

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—(AP)—The government rested its transportation case against Harry Bridges today.

Just before closing it, it introduced all of "the alien's admissions and testimony" at his 1939 hearing regarding affiliation with the Industrial Workers of the World, Marine Workers Industrial Union, waterfront worker and purchaser of Communist literature.

That testimony was introduced instead of calling Bridges to the stand as a witness against himself. If his statements were not accepted by the court, the prosecution said it would call Bridges.

Southwest City Bombed Again By Germans

Hard-Hit English Town Is Believed To Be Plymouth.

A TOWN IN SOUTHWEST ENGLAND, April 30.—(Wednes-day)—(P)—Massed formations of German warplanes struck again at this bomb-ravaged and virtually deserted town overnight, showering high explosives in an intense four-hour assault.

Casualties were believed to be light because thousands had been evacuated before the raid.

(This would indicate that the town was Plymouth, much-bombed British naval base.)

One hospital, in which children were reported to be patients, was wrecked by a direct hit and a number of casualties were feared.

The whole area was shaken by the thunder of bombs and a terrific antiaircraft barrage sent up in reply.

Unconfirmed reports said two hostile planes were downed by the roaring antiaircraft batteries.

Hundreds of flames threw a yellow curtain across the sky as the awesome prelude to the crash of bombs mighty enough to blast a whole block of buildings.

Explosives were scattered over an extraordinarily wide area of the residential district and the surrounding countryside.

10,000 SCHOOL CHILDREN MOVED FROM PLYMOUTH

PLYMOUTH, April 29.—(P)—A large part of this steadily bombed port, where Britain bases some of her antiaircraft fleet, was declared an evacuation area tonight and steps were taken to remove immediately 10,000 school children to the rural areas of Devon and Cornwall.

The Ministry of Health and local emergency committee announced the evacuation order following last night's intense two-hour raid. This raid, the fourth in the last seven days, added to the piles of rubble now so great that civilians wear makeshift masks to keep the dust from blinding them.

The raid also caused additional casualties to a population which only a few hours earlier had finished burying the victims of preceding attacks in a communal grave.

The downtown section of the city looks as if it had first been swept by mountainous flames, then smashed with a monstrous hammer.

Pay as little as $4.82 per month

Fuel savings up to 40% are not unusual with a modern Moncrief furnace. Last winter such savings were enjoyed in hundreds of Atlanta homes where old style heating plants were replaced with a modern Moncrief.

This economy of operation is made possible by the high efficiency of the Moncrief furnace and the fact that each installation is properly engineered to fit the house. The size and location of pipes and registers are scientifically arranged to give maximum heating comfort at minimum fuel cost. A comfortable house is assured by an even distribution of clean heat in every room.

If you plan to modernize your present heating plant or build a new home, it will pay you to investigate a modern Moncrief, for no other furnace gives such complete home comfort and big fuel savings.

Before You BUY Get the Facts!

Let us show you the many important features of Moncrief's superior construction, explain the advantages of a proper installation, local factory service and how you can buy now—nothing down—no payment until October—three years to pay. Then, when Germany moved on to take Bulgaria, Russia evinced disapproval, although she disdained a direct protest to Germany. Instead she denounced Bulgaria, the little brother Slav state, for permitting German troops to enter that nation.

Later, reliable reports from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, said that Russia had cut off shipments of oil to Germany immediately after Bulgaria joined the Axis. This report never was denied specifically in Berlin or Moscow.

Subsequently, Russia voiced her disapproval of the German invasion of Yugoslavia by signing a neutrality pact in which she pledged material assistance to Yugoslavia. Since, the Soviet press has voiced admiration for the Yugoslav stand against the Nazis and some Yugoslav planes which fled to Russia were permitted to land and continue to the Near East.

Smith, A. C. Stringer and T. D. Williams.
It was alleged that the company offered for sale certain stocks and later sought to exchange these for other stocks; that it represented the company as showing a profit where none existed, and that money received from sale of the stocks was used for other purposes than promised by company officials when stock was sold.

The name of Clifford Walker, former governor of Georgia, entered into the indictment when one specific issue of bonds was listed, as follows: Smith indictment "(2) 6 per cent indenture bonds or certificates of indebtedness which were issued pursuant to an indenture dated June 18, 1936, conveying both real and personal, then owned or thereafter to be acquired, the property of the company to Clifford Walker, trustee, in trust for the benefit of bondholders, said bonds also providing for participation in the profits to the extent not less than one-third of the total net earnings of the company; said bonds having been issued during the years 1936 and 1937 in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000 each, said bonds having been sold for cash and other consideration, and having been exchanged by the company with investors for the aforesaid profit-sharing bonds."

The "profit-sharing" bonds referred to were the first class mentioned in the indictment, and were of $10 denomination. The third class mentioned were 4,000 shares of "cumulative preferred stock" of $10 par value, and 4,000 shares "class B non-voting common stock" of $10 par value. These were alleged to have been sold in units of five shares each class for $100 per unit.

It was also charged that Smith issued 25,000 shares of "class A common voting stock," of which he and his nominees held over 50 per cent.

The grand jury recessed Tuesday afternoon after having been in session the first two days of court. Judge Robert L. Russell is presiding.

Told To Heed Embassy, Italian Captain Testifies

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 29.—(P)—Captain Vittorio Schenone of the seized Italian freighter Confidenza testified in federal court today that the ship's owner ordered him to scuttle the craft at sea or if in a neutral port to follow orders from the Italian embassy's naval attaché to prevent its falling into foreign hands.

The master and 20 crew members are being tried on charges of sabotage. The ship was seized by United States Coast Guardsmen March 30 after most of the machinery had been wrecked.

The open discussion was scheduled for the first sitting day after this week. (If parliament follows custom, that will be next Tuesday.) Churchill indicated that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden might report on his diplomatic efforts in the middle east.

For the time being, however, the Prime Minister maintained his steady silence on details of the war. In reply to Edgar Louis Granville, Laborite who demanded to know whether the country would get more news of the war situation, Churchill said:

"I hope the country will always get all possible news on the war situation, but I hope, in fact I am sure, the country would not wish to receive news which would add to the dangers of our troops, whose dangerous and critical operations are being successfully carried out."

Members cheered loudly, taking this as an intimation that a large part of the forces in Greece had been saved.

The house shouted down a member who asked if Churchill "alone" was responsible for war strategy.

Granville asked if Churchill would consider establishment of a small supreme war cabinet without departmental responsibilities and including men of the caliber of the Australian prime minister, Robert G. Menzies.

"No, sir," replied Churchill. Fully Discussed.
Granville then asked whether empire statesmen would be invited to join an imperial war cabinet, since the whole empire was involved in the war.

Germans Shell British Coast For Five Hours

RAF Battles 100 Messerschmitts Over Channel.

DOVER, April 29.—(UP)—German big guns on the French coast bombarded Dover and vicinity heavily for five hours today while over the channel Royal Air Force fighters battled more than 100 Nazi Messerschmitts to give the southeast coast its biggest day since the invasion scare of last year.

In the bombardment, the Germans for the first time used shrapnel—shells which explode in the air before striking, hurling showers of death-dealing steel splinters.

The first shells screamed over at about 8 a. m. At 10 a. m. British long-range runs on this side of the channel opened up in retaliation, and a furious duel continued until past noon.

Few Injuries.
During the bombardment, the Germans several times sent formations of Messerschmitt fighters against the British coast. They were met promptly by squadrons of Spitfires and Hurricanes and the enemy planes twisted and turned in furious air fighting

September. The RAF defenders prevented all but a few of the raiders from penetrating the coast defenses.

The German big guns apparently hoped to cause heavy casualties by shell splinters but Dover police reported only two persons suffering minor injuries. Although pedestrians took to cover, motor traffic, including buses, continued through the bombardment.

Huge warning signs, "shelling in progress," were posted at all roads leading into Dover.
At the height of the British bombardment large columns of smoke rose 200 to 300 feet in the air between Calais and Boulogne, indicating that oil storage tanks had been hit. A little later a cloud of steam was seen shooting skyward in Boulogne harbor, indicating that a ship had been hit.

in commons some months ago and there was nothing to add.

Another inquiry by Granville, whether summoning of an empire war conference was contemplated, drew the response:

"At present there is no such intention."

Geoffrey L. Mander, opposition Liberal, moved for approval of recent declarations in New York by Lord Halifax, ambassador to the United States, on British war aims, but Churchill did not answer.

Lord Halifax, addressing the Pilgrims of the United States on March 25, said that "in many respects the world must be treated in the future as a single whole," that the British commonwealth "may well, by its geographical dispersion, become the bridge of greater world unity tomorrow," and that "we see the urgent need for economic co-operation, and we are ready to take part in plans to promote it on a world-wide scale."

America Sees Russian Ban As Open Break With Germany

Soviets Believed Adopting Self Protective Measures in Halting Shipments of Armaments, According to Washington Observers.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(P)—Russia's sensational decree banning transit of war materials through the Soviet Union was viewed here tonight as evidence of a widening breach between the Kremlin and Berlin.

In the absence of State Department comment, it was said unofficially that the decree—coming while both the German and Japanese war machines were being fed with supplies shipped through Russia—would indicate that Russia is adopting self-protective measures dictated by Germany's quick conquest of the Balkans and fear of a possible German invasion.

The effect of the order, as interpreted here, is to close channels through which United States war supplies have been reaching Germany and over which Germany reportedly has been bolstering the Japanese army. If this is true, it was said, early German reaction can be expected.

One official said the decree opened up a wide vista of possibilities, chief of which is whether Russia, convinced at last that she may be in danger of external military attack, is getting in a state of readiness. It is persistently reported that Germany's next move will be into the Russian Ukraine, breadbasket for the entire Soviet Union.

There appeared little possibility that the order was intended to block continuance of Russian aid to China, although that might come within the scope of the recently-signed Russo-Japanese non-aggression treaty.

The new Chinese foreign minister, Dr. Quo Tai-chi, conferred today with President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell

Hull and said afterward that the Kremlin had assured his government that the pact would not alter the Russian attitude toward China.

One official said it is anybody's guess what the decree means.

Dr. Quo, en route from London to Chungking, said after the Roosevelt-Hull talks, that he was "greatly encouraged about the prospects of co-operation between China and the United States."

Coinciding with his arrival, Dr. T. V. Soong, chairman of the board of the Bank of China, announced that China Defense Supplies, Inc., had been organized to handle American lend-lease aid.

Cracker Power Crushes Travelers in Second Game of Series, 14-2

BY JACK TROY

Major Bob Neyland shouldn't feel the loss of Major Bob Neyland so much in the 1941 season, inasmuch as spring practice already has been held, but if the Army demands his services as an engineer for more than one season, there will be ample opportunity to see how much he really means to the orange-clad Volunteers.

Once before Tennessee followers sent out a clarion call for Neyland. He was in Panama on Army duty and Tennessee dropped five games to traditional foes. It was too much. Those Vols have got to win.

So the call went out and Neyland returned. It may not be so simple this time, however. Neyland may not be able to resign his commission within a year's time.

The Vols suffered staggering losses in player talent from the 1940 team. All those boys like Suffridge and Molinski and Foxx, who started out together as freshmen, are gone. They played in three bowl games together.

With a harder schedule confronting them, the Vols may have more than unusual difficulty in going undefeated through another regular season of play. It is about time, anyway, that they ran afoul the law of averages.

Speculation has it that John Barnhill, line coach, may be named temporary coach of the Vols in the absence of Major Bob. Major Bill Britton handled the team in '35 when five games were lost.

Whoever handles the team, regardless of the fact that many tried and true veterans have graduated, if the Vols don't win, it will be blamed on the absence of Bob Neyland. Such is the man's record and the esteem in which he is held on The Hill.

'Second Childhood' Al Ennis, who is advance man for the pro tennis troupe which will appear in Atlanta on May 9, arrived yesterday singing the praises of Bill Tilden.

Tilden, who has been 48 for three years and now claims permanent possession of that age, has won only eight of 49 matches with Don Budge on the tour, but he has won these eight in the last 13 matches.

"He's either getting his second wind or going into his second childhood, one or the other," Ennis reported. "Outside of Budge and Fred Perry, I don't believe there's a tennis player in the world capable of beating him consistently."

Tilden won his first national title in 1913, which was two years before Don Budge saw the light of day. And at 48 or 50, or however old he actually is, Tilden's still a good match for the California redhead.

For almost 30 years Tilden has been a top-flight tennis player. His records never will be equalled. He is to tennis what Jones is to golf and Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth are to baseball.

He was in his prime when Jones was at his peak in golf and Cobb and Ruth were going at their best in baseball. And defying all the accepted theories of what constitutes the "life" of an athlete, Tilden still is one of the best in his sport. It is nothing short of amazing.

Keeps Him Young Want to be young at 75? All right, adopt a good first-class hobby like baseball. (Editor's note: A team like the present Crackers is guaranteed to take 20 years off your life.)

If you don't want to take my word for it, maybe you'll believe Dr. W. J. Auten, of Omega, Ga. Or if that isn't

Dixie League Meeting

Is Scheduled Tonight
There will be a meeting of the Dixie League of the Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation at 7:30 o'clock tonight at 52 North Broad street.

Another Saturday league may also be formed tonight as several teams are desirous of entering a league. No franchise fee will be charged members of this new league. Any team wishing to enter should have a representative at the meeting tonight.

Model making—

a liberal education
Many benefits follow taking up the hobby of model making. You become more critical of things, more exacting, more thorough in the work you do. It's a fascinating thing—to make a model boat, train, airplane, etc. The tools don't cost much—it's a liberal education and a pile of fun. We have the things you need.

HE PLAYS FOR FUN—Bobby Jones III, son of the ex-emperor of golf, will play in the Southern Prep and High School tournament at Chattanooga Thursday and Friday. Young Bobby, who shoots around 90, will not be gunning for the title. He plays for fun, and has no aspirations to shoot championship golf. He wants to play a good game and enjoy it. Almost 6 feet tall and weighing 195, he is much larger than his father.

LOOKOUTS 13, CHICKS 6.
(AP)—Chattanooga cellar-dwelling Lookouts reached up and bopped the second-place Memphis Chicks, 13 to 6, today, snapping a five-game losing streak.

Buck Marrow started for the Lookouts but was shelved out in the second inning when Red Evans took over. After getting out of the second, Evans pitched shutout ball for seven innings.

Gully Rikard, Chick centerfielder, with a single hit in five trips to the plate, cracked out a homer, a triple and a double.

Marshall Homers With 2 Aboard

By JACK TROY

Constitution Sports Editor.

The Crackers usually take batting practice before a game, but last night they changed the procedure and staged a hit parade at the expense of three pitchers as they turned back Little Rock, 14 to 2, for the second straight victory of the series.

Over the league, the Clarion call is ringing loud and clear—"Stop the Crackers." Last night's win was Atlanta's 16th in 19 starts and a full game was added to the lead over second-place Memphis. The Crackers move in for a series starting Thursday night.

The Crackers last night started scoring runs by three in the first inning, and four times had three-run innings. They also had a two-run inning.

Orin Baker started, retired in favor of Volpi and Volpi was replaced by Lefty Lee Rogers. Between them, Baker and Volpi allowed the Crackers 15 hits and 12 runs.

TWIN BAMBINOS.

Willard Marshall hit a three-run homer for the 10th, 11th and 12th Cracker runs in the sixth. Lester Burge socked a 450-foot triple up the center field bank in the first inning. There was all sorts of slugging. Skipper Slug Richards had a perfect night with three for three. He felt so good about it he let Sol Ferrara catch a couple of innings.

Buddy Bates did an unusual thing in scoring five runs. Bates also had a perfect night, with three for three. Two were triples. Charley Glock had three hits in four trips.

Charley Glock was wild but still effective as the winning pitcher. The young rookie walked six and delivered three wild pitches. He might have had trouble in a close ball game.

Mahan and Resinger secured two hits each of the Travelers total of seven.

Bert Niehoff's Pebbles simply were overpowered in the second game of the series.

The Richards Rifles apparently don't mean to lose a series this season.

The final game with Little Rock is a Ladies' Night and will find Jennings Poindexter toting the mound against his old mates, the Pebbles. The game will start at 8:15.

BATES OPENS STRONG.

Bates opened Baker with a robust triple to right center, and the Crackers were off. There was a lull when Mallico fielded and Ryan grounded out. Then Marshall doubled, scoring Bates. Burge hit a tremendous triple on the distant center-field bank, 450 feet away, scoring Marshall, and Glock came through with a single, sending Burge across. Glock was thrown out attempting to steal.

The Crackers scored three more runs in the second inning. Bergmann pounded a single to left and took second on Duke's bobble. Richards beat out an infield hit. Bates beat out a slow roller and Bergmann scored. Mallico doubled off the signs, sending Richards and Bates home. Volpi replaced Baker. Ryan fanned and Marshall grounded out.

Cortez staggered around in the fourth, but was saved by fine fielding as the Pebbles scored twice. Dwyer singled and Duke walked. Mahan's single scored Dwyer. Duke scored on a wild pitch by Cortez. Bergmann made a great play to retire Franklin. Tyack popped to Glock.

Then Glock made a barehand stab and threw out Schalk.

THREE MORE.

The Crackers threw another three-spot at the Pebbles in the fourth. Richards singled and Cortez sacrificed. Bates and Mallico walked. Ryan's single scored Richards and Bates. Marshall fled to right and Mallico went to third after the catch. Burge singled to right, scoring Mallico. Ryan was out trying to reach third.

For the fourth time, the Crackers scored three runs in an inning. In the sixth, Bates and Mallico walked, Ryan sacrificed and Marshall hit a home run. It was that simple.

The Crackers just scored two runs in the seventh. Richards walked and Cortez again sacrificed. Bates hit to center; Dwyer twisted his ankle and Bates made a triple out of the hit. Richards scored. Mallico fled to Dwyer and Bates scored.

That ended the scoring.

March Earnings Soar For U.S. Steel

Profit Hits Highest Since 1929; Dividends Also Declared.

NEW YORK, April 29.—(P)—United States Steel Corporation today reported net income in the March quarter amounted to $36,659,995. This compared with $32,763,251 in the December quarter and $17,113,995 in the March quarter a year ago. It was the largest profit for the March quarter since 1929.

Earnings in the latest period were equal to $3.47 a common share compared with $3.04 in the December quarter and $1.24 in the first three months of 1940.

Directors declared a dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, payable June 20 to stock of record May 20. The last payment was $1 made in January. Directors also declared a quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share, the preferred, payable May 20 to stock of record May 2.

Earnings in the latest period were after a reserve of $5,000,000 to provide for additional taxes and "other contingencies attaching to the present high rate of operations."

The report stated shipments of finished steel products in the first quarter were 60 per cent over the first quarter of 1940 and showed an increase of 9 per cent over the fourth quarter last year.

Net tons shipped were 4,957,271 in the first quarter this year compared with 4,542,383 in the final quarter of 1940 and 3,086,753 tons in the same period of 1940.

Turner W. Clanton Burial Here Today

Turner W. Clanton, once widely known in Atlanta as president of the American Seating Company and the Clanton-Webb Company, died Monday at the home of his daughter in Blountville, Fla., where he had lived since his retirement.

A consistent member of Druid Hills Methodist church, Mr. Clanton severed his connection only when he left Atlanta to make his home in Augusta.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Carrie Lou Merry Clanton; his daughter, Mrs. J. G. Gaaney, of Blountville, and two grandsons.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11:30 this morning at Spring Hill. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. George M. Clapp, 85, of 141 The Grange, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

A member of St. Mark Methodist church since 1919 when, with her husband, a widely known planter, she moved here from Columbus, she was one of the most beloved members of that congregation. She also held a life membership in the Women's Missionary Society of St. Mark.

Mrs. Clapp was the former Miss Florence Dillard, of Auburn, Ala.

The Army IN GEORGIA

President Roosevelt yesterday sent to the senate the nominations of four Georgia Army officers, three to be promoted from lieutenant colonel to colonel, and the other to be promoted from major to lieutenant colonel.

The lieutenant colonels to become colonels were Augustus Benjamin Jones, of Eastman; Robert Durant Hardin, of Atlanta, and Frank O'Driscoll Hunter, of Savannah, while the major to become lieutenant colonel was James Emerson Bush, of Clarkston.

Colonel Hunter is a graduate of the air service observation and tactical schools, and holder of the Distinguished Service Cross with four oak leaf clusters. He is now stationed at the Orlando (Fla.) air base.

Colonel Hardin was graduated in 1911 from the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, and graduated from the Army Medical school in 1915. In 1928, he was graduated from the Harvard School of Public Health and from the Army Medical Field Service school in 1932. He is now stationed at Gorgas hospital, Ancon, Canal Zone.

Colonel Jones was graduated from the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1910, and from Army Medical school in 1915. He is now stationed at the Army and Navy General hospital, Hot Springs National Park, Ark. Lieutenant Colonel Bush is National Guard instructor at Boston, Mass. He was graduated from the Field Artillery school in 1922.

BENNING BAKERS, COOKS TO GRADUATE

Two hundred and thirty-six students of the Bakers' and Cooks' school at Fort Benning will graduate this morning at exercises in the assembly room, with diplomas being presented by Captain William E. Barksdale, assistant commandant.

The class is one of the largest to graduate in months, and includes 18 mess sergeants, 13 pastry bakers, 109 bakers and 96 cooks. The course is for two months.

HELEN FARRISH, GUEST AT BENNING

Helen Parrish, screen starlet, formerly of Columbus, Ga., was a recent visitor at Fort Benning and was guest of honor at a luncheon given by "E" Company, 20th Engineers.

Following the luncheon, the film player witnessed an engineer demonstration which was part of the tactical inspection of the 20th Engineers made by Colonel Cresswell Garlington, Fourth Army Corps engineer officer.

Luncheon guests included Lieutenant Colonel William F. Heavy, regimental commander, and Mrs. Heavy.

War Opposed By Japanese, Visitor Says

People Misled, Mrs. Brown Tells Agnes Scott Students.

The Japanese people are opposed to the war with China, which their leaders insist on calling an "incident," and were misled into the recent pact with the Axis powers, Mrs. William C. Brown, daughter of President J. R. McCain, of Agnes Scott, said yesterday after returning from a six-months' stay in Tokyo.

There was such great sadness among the people when the agreement with Italy and Germany was announced that the Emperor himself is reported to have wept bitterly, she told students in chapel meeting at Agnes Scott.

"The Japanese dislike Americans, but they hate the Germans," she pointed out, "and were willing to make a pact with them only in order to get food and war supplies that were urgently needed."

Japan "Hopeful." So far the Axis powers have done nothing to relieve the urgency of the Japanese economic conditions, she said, but Japan is still hopeful.

"Food is so scarce that bread is sold only for one hour each day in Tokyo. The people can get no cotton, no wool, no leather, and very little silk. Their fuel supply is so low that schools are heated only one month in the year."

"Help the poor Chinese" is the propaganda approach used by the leaders to demand sacrifices for the war. Even the children are organized into groups to save small coins with the idea of helping the little Chinese children.

"Rescue" For Chinese. "The Japanese further insist they are rescuing the Chinese from 'western exploitation,' Communism, and lawlessness among the Chinese themselves."

Army officials wish that Japanese religious worship could be controlled by the government, and are therefore putting great pressure on all religious groups in that country, she said. That was the reason Mrs. Brown, who with her husband was a missionary in Japan, was forced to leave.

Under the law preventing "subversive activities" in Japan, two people may discuss the war or the food shortage, but if as many as three discuss such questions they are liable to severe penalties, she said.

Approaching Crisis. Mrs. Brown intimated that affairs are approaching a crisis

BACK FROM JAPAN—Mrs. William C. Brown, daughter of the president of Agnes Scott, who has just returned from Japan, where she and her husband were Presbyterian missionaries.

when Japan will either gain strength, with the aid of the Axis powers, or lose it completely.

"The Japanese are themselves likeable people," she added. "They have a 99 per cent literacy. The average businessman there looks with disdain upon commercial enterprises, regarding them only as necessary evils. Most of them want to retire at 40 and write poetry or plant flowers. Even the crew on a freighter that brought us from Tokyo held regular evening 'poetry circles' to read and criticize each other's literary efforts."

Benning To Train Latin Americans

FORT BENNING, Ga., April 29.

Nine Latin-American Army officers are soon to be attached to the fourth motorized division to observe and participate in training activities until August. They are: Captain Emilio Tovar, of Columbia; Captain Miguel E. Mora, of Costa Rica; Captain Mario Fernandez, of Costa Rica; Captain Carlos F. Piche, of El Salvador; Captain Brone Berges Fortes, of Brazil; Lieutenant Augusto Ponce, of Guatemala; Lieutenant David Chincilla, of Honduras; Lieutenant Antonio R. Gonzales and Lieutenant Angel Alberto Equi, both of Venezuela.

Atlanta Traffic Flows Faster, Board Learns

One-Way Streets Approved; 'Trouble Spots' Studied.

Atlanta traffic is moving more rapidly and safer than in the past several years, and the two worst bottlenecks in the city—Ellis and Peachtree streets and Peachtree and Baker streets—have been relieved of much of the former congestion.

This yesterday was the consensus of members of the newly created traffic board, which for the first time since the program to relieve congestion and speed up the flow of vehicles surveyed the result of their labors.

L. L. Gellerstedt, chairman, and members of the board were pleased with the operation of the series of one-way streets, and toured several "trouble spots" studying means of bringing further relief to drivers.

Recessing a board session at which Decatur street merchants asked the board to recommend that non-parking ordinances during rush hours on Decatur street from Five Points to Bell street be repealed, the board began its tour in company with Mayor LeCraw and traffic experts.

No action was taken on the Decatur street request, but board members voted to give the plan a fair trial, and to ask the co-operation of merchants. M. L. Thomas and Emmett Elliott, police traffic engineers, were instructed to study further an ordinance ordering that the traffic signal lights at State street and Hemphill be taken down.

Earlier in the day Mayor LeCraw asked aid of the Atlanta Boy Scout council in a fact-finding traffic flow and parking lot count in downtown Atlanta for the purpose of providing factual material in considering flows and the parking problems as related to off-street parking.

M. M. Rollison, safety chairman of the Scout council, was urged to seek council approval for about 200 picked Scouts to conduct the count on May 21. Under the plan all vehicles entering the area bounded by Baker, Garnett, Spring and Piedmont and Capitol avenues will be checked by the Scouts. Arrangements already have been made to check passengers on buses and street cars to add to the general information which the survey will reveal.

Blockade Runner Safe in Brazil

SANTOS, Brazil, April 29.—(P) The 3,172-ton German freighter, Natal, carrying a general cargo, arrived here today after a 32-day British-blockade-running voyage from Hamburg, Germany.

The ship, second to make the westward voyage to Brazil through the blockade, was camouflaged. She was scheduled to dock tomorrow and unload her 2,500 tons of freight.

Captain Bernhard Wilkiens, of the Natal, said he would hold a press conference tomorrow.

Shipping circles here said two or three other German vessels were en route to Santos.

The 3,290-ton German freighter Lech sailed yesterday from Rio de Janeiro in an apparent effort to run the blockade with a cargo of fuel oil, cotton seed, hides, iron, mica, coffee and other merchandise.

The ship arrived in Rio de Janeiro March 3 from Bordeaux, the first German vessel to break through the blockade to Brazil.)

Brilliant Driving Club Supper-Dance Honors Metropolitan Stars

Society Assembles for Party Following Opera, 'Faust'

Amber liquid bubbling in a giant crystal champagne glass centered the miniature garden, which adorned the stars' table at the elaborate supper dance held last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club following the performance of Gounod's opera, "Faust," by the Metropolitan Opera Company. The decorations on the table, which was in the shape of a star, featured silver candelabra holding lighted white tapers, which cast a soft glow over the guests.

At the far end of the club's handsome Georgian ballroom was a backdrop of black velvet, upon which was silhouetted a huge golden harp, giving a musical theme to the decorative motif. Repeating the musical note were the golden lyres which adorned the stately columns ranging the length of the room. Crystal bowls filled with spring flowers decorated the tables at which members of Atlanta society and prominent out-of-town guests were seated.

Seated at the table reserved for the opera stars, officers of the Driving Club and the Atlanta Music Club were Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Kilpatrick, James H. ## Nutritious Meals Made From Eggs Quickly

By Sally Saver.

If there are eggs in the house, a meal can be put together even on the shortest notice. Eggs fit into any meal—breakfast, lunch, dinner or supper. They are highly nutritious in protein value and vitamin content, and, like apples, an egg a day is a good food rule.

For lunch or supper, try serving creamed whole eggs arranged in a spinach ring to look like eggs in a nest. It is easily made as follows:

Creamed whole eggs in cheese sauce—5 or 6 hard-cooked eggs.

To prepare the eggs, cook for 12 minutes in hot water that is kept just at the simmering point. Pour cold water over eggs and remove shells immediately and put whole peeled eggs into warm water to keep warm before putting into sauce.

Cheese sauce:
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1-2 cup milk
2 ounces mild cheese
Empty the cream of mushroom soup into a saucepan and stir well, then add milk and finely sliced or grated cheese. Heat until the cheese is melted. Pour the cheese sauce over the hot hard-cooked eggs. Serve in a spinach ring or a rice ring.

Omelets invite different sauces.
A plain omelet frequently can be served with a different sauce that changes the flavor and provides a new appeal. Combining ham and tomato, the following sauce has an extra zip the family will like.

Ham and Tomato Sauce.
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 clove garlic
1 medium size onion chopped
3-4 cup boiled ham or prepared ham loaf

1 can condensed tomato soup
1 teaspoon sugar
Cook finely sliced garlic and chopped onion in the cooking oil, until soft, about 10 minutes. Then add ham cut in narrow strips about 3-4 inch long, cover and cook slowly for 10 more minutes. Add the tomato soup and sugar and cook until flavors are well blended.

Muscular Exercises Improve Figures

By Ida Jean Kain.

Probably the most popular feminine conception of economy is to spend a trifle more than the budget allows for a frock "because it is an advanced style and will be every bit as good next year." Well, how about your favorite last year's frock?

If it has a "funny fit," perhaps your figure has changed. You may require a whole size larger—in places, at least—without having put on a pound of weight.

A measurement gain is most conspicuous at the waist and hip line. The waistline settles and thickens and the hips may spread just from sitting eight hours a day.

Keeping your figure is largely a matter of muscle tone. Oddly enough, well-toned muscle weighs more than flabby tissue but it is compact and takes up little space, whereas the flabby tissue is bulky and shapeless. If you condition your waistline muscles and the large gluteus maximus on the back of the hip, you can trim your measurements without counting calories.

But for day-in, day-out exercise, let's begin on that waistline. Stand on your knees on the floor, knees about 12 inches apart, with arms out at the sides, shoulder level. First, pull slim through the middle. Then, keeping the arms straight and the hips in line, dip to the left and try to touch fingers to floor. Straighten up, and dip to the right. Keep that up for 10 counts, then flop down and relax for a minute.

Now for the hip line. Stand up in a doorway, with hands grasping the door frame at either side, and swing first one leg, then the other, up in front and out in back. Work up a good rhythm, up and back, for 50 counts, before transferring the action to the other leg. Of course, the hip muscles are supposed to do the work.

Balanced Slimming Menu.

Breakfast—	Calories
Orange juice, 1-2 glass	55
Soft boiled egg	75
Whole wheat toast, thin	50
Butter, 1-2 pat, 1-4 inch thick	25

High School Girl Has Trouble In Overcoming Timidity

By Dixie George.

(An Atlanta woman conducts this column of friendly counsel. Her cheerful, sympathetic and logical advice is available to any reader of The Constitution in helping to solve bothersome problems of heart and home. Another person's opinion is valuable and often necessary as the guide to a sensible decision. Dixie George offers the real service of a real friend. Send your letters to her and she will give her advice in this column. Your name will be held in confidence. Write Dixie George, care The Constitution.)

Dear Dixie: I am in high school, a freshman, and every year members of the class have a dance. I don't know very many boys and I am a little timid about asking one to take me. I will have to call on one, however, and I am writing to ask you if you will tell me what would be the best thing to do and how to do it. Do you suppose I will have a good time?

FRESHMAN.

Dear Freshman: Before you ever invite the young man to take you to the dance, the first thing you must do is to not "suppose you will have a good time," but "know you will." That knowledge is the first thing to keep you from being a wallflower.

As for the young man, why be timid about inviting him? He, like the rest of the boys, knows that you and the girls will invite boys to the dance. He expects you to give someone a ring when the proper time comes. Consider that it is a favor you are going to do for him. He would feel pretty bad if he didn't get asked, wouldn't he? There is no need in being timid about it. Just call the one you have selected and tell him that you are one of the hostesses for the party and you have selected him as your escort, and you would like for him to be your guest. Don't ask him if he will go with you, tell him you want him. It is the better approach system. If he has been invited by one of the other girls, don't let it down you. Just call another one. Remember there are as good fish in the sea as have ever been caught.

Today's Charm Tip
Sweet music to your ears is your name when it is surprisingly remembered. So 'tis music to other ears when you surprise them by remembering their names.

MY DAY: Churchill's Speech Gave Us Challenge

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Monday.—Yesterday we listened in a pleasant living room to Mr. Winston Churchill speak, so many thousands miles away. One must admire a man who can trust the people of his country so completely that he can tell them stark-naked, cruel truths unafraid. That quality of courage is a kind of challenge which calls to the very depth of other human souls.

Mr. Churchill can use the English language so that it rings and pounds the emotion behind the words into your brain. He knows the value of contrast. Though it is years since I have read the poem which he quoted, I can think of none better to fit the occasion. When all is said and done, however, what remains with me is his stark sincerity and indomitable courage.

At 12:30 we hurried down to the NYA center to see a colossal and fine statue of the President. Miss Thompson and I lunched with Mrs. Jerome Schneider and my daughter-in-law, Romelle. In the afternoon many people came to the Douglas' house for tea. The patio buzzed with conversation and for me it was most exciting. To meet and talk with people whose work one has long admired is always a thrilling experience.

Meeting James Hilton, Burgess Meredith, Mary McCall, Dorothy Parker and many others actually in the flesh was an experience which I had never hoped to have. To know that many of the people who were here yesterday had worked in the last campaign for the President, and that most of them believe in what he stands for, was most inspiring.

So often you have to be glad because of your friends, I kept saying to myself, even if some programs are wrong. The ideas in back of them must be right or the people wouldn't be with us in the fight for democracy.

It was particularly nice to see again some familiar faces. Mr. Marc Connelly, who was so patient in the broadcast which I had the fun of presiding over in the last campaign; Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Mann, whose short time with us in the White House was such a pleasure; and our old friend, Mr. Eddie Dowling, who is here acting in the play, "Time of Your Life," which we enjoyed so much last year in New York.

After dinner, we went over to Mr. Walt Disney's studio and he was kind enough to show us some of the work he is doing for defense. I liked particularly the drawings before they reach the color stage, and was very glad to find one artist at work in the studio and to see what the process of making these drawings really means. These cute little figures may teach us many lessons in the future, as well as provide the entertainment on which we have come to count.

Breakfast on the porch this morning, and now big envelopes of mail from Washington to keep us busy until we go to lunch.

Woman's Quiz

Q. Please give a recipe for mock angel cake.

A. The ingredients are: 2 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 1 1-3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2-3 cup scalded milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-3 teaspoon salt. Mix and sift together four times the sugar, flour, baking powder and salt. Pour in the scalded milk gradually. Fold in egg whites, stiffly beaten, and add vanilla. Turn into ungreased angel food pan and bake in moderate oven for 45 minutes. It is best when served a day or two after baking.

Supper Honors Bridal Couple

Climaxing the numerous social affairs, which have complimented Miss Rosemary Wrigley and Carwell G. Aycock Jr., prior to their wedding, was the buffet supper at which Mr. Aycock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carwell G. Aycock, entertained last evening.

The affair, which was held at the Aycock residence on Pine Valley road, assembled members of the Wrigley-Aycock wedding party after the rehearsal. Mrs. Paul Johnson Jr. poured coffee and Miss Helen Aycock assisted her parents in entertaining.

An artistic arrangement of white stock and gladioli in a silver bowl centered the lace overlaid table. Completing the table

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Marks 10th Anniversary This Evening

Today Beta Sigma Phi, international cultural and social sorority, celebrates its 10th anniversary, a decade of achievement. Founded at Abilene, Kan., on April 30, 1931, by Walter W. Ross, to provide cultural growth to young women between the ages of 18 and 35, the sorority has grown until there are now 1,170 chapters, with a membership of 23,000. The Atlanta city council, of which Miss Cora Lee O'Shields is president, is composed of five chapters: Epsilon, Julia Lombard, president; Iota, Anne Wilhoit, president; Kappa, Mary Peek, president; Lambda, Marjorie Braswell, president; and Theta, Ruby Beavers, president, will observe Founders' Day with a banquet this evening at the Henry Grady hotel. Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, city sponsor, and Mrs. Alva Maxwell, associate city sponsor, will be honor guests. Other guests will be Miss Yolande Gwin and Mrs. Carl Aven.

The program, led by Miss

MRS. ROBERT SZOLD, of New York.

Mayfair Luncheon Will Pay Honor To Mrs. Szold

Mrs. Robert Szold, of New York, member of the political committee, editor of the Hadassah Newsletter, and chairman of Hadassah's American Affairs Committee, will arrive in Atlanta tomorrow. During her brief visit, she will be honored at a luncheon to be held at the Mayfair Club on Friday. A meeting at 11 o'clock will precede the luncheon, which will be served promptly at noon.

Mrs. Szold was born in Savannah, Ga., and spent her childhood in the south. Both her grandfathers fought in the War Between the States and a paternal ancestor was a Revolutionary soldier. She attended normal school in Charleston, S. C., and then went to Bryn Mawr College. After graduation she entered the field of social service and under her direction school nursing, social centers and settlement classes were established.

Mrs. Szold is widely known as an exceptional parliamentarian and is well equipped for her post as a member of Hadassah's political activities at a time when Zionism is becoming an increasingly important factor on the war front, in the solution of the refugee problem and in the Jewish upbuilding program for Palestine. Reservations for luncheon may be made with Mrs. H. S. Jacobs, Vernon 9947, or Mrs. P. Koplin, Hemlock 0784.

O. E. S. Barbecue.

Clara Henrich Memorial Chapter, O. E. S. will sponsor a barbecue at Grant Park, Saturday from noon until 8 o'clock p. m., as one of its major efforts for charity. Tickets can be secured from members or at the park.

appointments were silver candelabra which held lighted white tapers. Further beautifying the home were arrangements of vari-colored tulips and iris.

The marriage of Miss Wrigley and Mr. Aycock will be brilliantly solemnized at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Cathedral of Christ the King.

O'Shields, as toastmistress, will be on patriotism. The grace, a prize-winning song in the International Song Writing contest, by Miss Carolyn Bennett, past president of the Iota chapter, will be sung. Miss Aileen Cook will give a history of Atlanta Beta Sigma Phi and Misses Jane Turner, Marcia Bierman, Mary Peek, Anne Wilhoit and Julia Lombard will be on the program. Mary Wright will sing "On Founders' Day," first prize song in the song contest.

The new council officers, to be installed after dinner, include Misses Elizabeth Mann, president; Mary Peek, vice president; Carolyn Bennett, secretary; Thonnie Pope, treasurer, and Ruby Beavers, sergeant-at-arms. The ritual of jewels, conducted by Miss Elizabeth Mann, will be held for the pledges.

The international convention, to be held at Kansas City, Mo., June 20-22, will be the first international convention for the organization.

Ben Hill Garden Club To Hold Flower Show.

The annual spring flower show of the Ben Hill Garden Club will be held tomorrow from 3 to 8 o'clock at the clubhouse.

Miss Eunice Baker is president of the club; Mrs. Roy Baker, vice president; Mrs. W. R. Phillips, secretary; Mrs. Marcus Cash, treasurer; Mrs. C. P. Suber and Mrs. Hugh Stephens, staging flower show.

Miss Malone Heads Zeonox Club.

Miss Frances Malone was re-elected president of the Zeonox Club at the recent spring formal. Others elected were Misses Gem Muirhead, vice president; Ewina Stockbridge, secretary; Dana Gopper, treasurer; Mary Jane Schumacher, scribe. Retiring officers are Misses Mary Anne Linane, vice president; Jean Scruggs, secretary; Sonya Edgar, treasurer; Anne Calloway, scribe.

Flower Show Set for Friday.

Garden Division of Boulevard Park Women's Club will hold a flower show on Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. M. Wender, 643 Amsterdam avenue, N. E. Friends of the club are invited.

A picnic and meeting will be held on Tuesday, May 6, at the botanical gardens and Mrs. J. V. Wicker, transportation chairman, requests members to meet at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Raymond Wolfe, 700 Park drive.

Maple Grove No. 86.

Maple Grove No. 86, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, meets Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the club rooms at 160 Central avenue. The attendance prize will be awarded.

Mrs. Vannie McDonough recently entertained the Loyalty Club of the grove at a benefit bazaar party in her home in West End. Proceeds were given to the Grady Auxiliary.

At a special meeting of the club held recently honor guests included Mesdames Mayola Odom, district captain; Emma Brooks, national representative; Ruth Bowlers, past state president; Helen Shearin, state secretary; Louise Baumgras, state attendant; Misses Darleen Moon, associate state attendant, and Myrtle Hardy, state captain. Mesdames Rebecca Millers, Flora Grimes and Miss Evelyn Harby were received into the society. The relief committee made a report of two cases of milk and 125 magazines donated to the Grady Auxiliary for the month of April. Attendance prize was won by Mrs. Shearin.

FIND HER—$75 IN REWARDS—This is That Hamilton Woman. She's a menace to homes and empires. The Constitution offers $25 per day for three days to the first person to identify her on each day. She will be on the streets of downtown Atlanta today between 12 o'clock noon and 1 o'clock. To identify her and claim the reward, you must have a copy of this morning's Atlanta Constitution in your hand.

'That Hamilton Woman' To Be In City Today

Amateur Detectives Can Win $25 Reward by Identifying Her.

That Hamilton Woman is on the loose today. And there is a $25 reward for her identification, because That Hamilton Woman was a menace to homes and empires before the world ever heard of Hitler.

Fact is, That Hamilton Woman—an—who, it is known, will be somewhere in downtown Atlanta between 12 o'clock noon and 1 o'clock today—is not apprehended and tagged with a copy of this morning's Atlanta Constitution today, the ante will be raised to $50 tomorrow, and should she successfully avoid the city's amateur detectives tomorrow, the reward will be $75 for her identification Friday.

In an adjoining column is a photograph of That Hamilton Woman—an attractive, smartly dressed, dark-haired beauty—shown reading a copy of The Constitution. But her face eluded the camera. It is known that in her face there is a close enough resemblance to the smooth features of Vivien Leigh (who plays That Hamilton Woman in the United Artist film of that name) for them sisters—well, anyway cousins.

She's pretty and she's dangerous. She's smart and she's attractive. Her job is to avoid being detected. If she can go all three days without being identified a single time, she gets a bonus and the British War Relief Society gets the $75 that The Constitution is offering for her apprehension—$25 per day with the ante mounting daily (for three days) until she is caught.

Here's a chance for you amateur detectives to prove your ability. That Hamilton Woman will be at the work downtown between 12 o'clock noon and 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Your badge of authority and your handcuffs are a copy of this morning's Atlanta Constitution. If

THEY'RE AT WAR NEXT DOOR:

Mackenzie King Has Same Courage That Roosevelt and Churchill Have

(This is the eighth in a graphic series: "They're at War Next Door," by George H. Lyon, who spent a month in Canada making an exhaustive study of the war effort. He talked with all kinds of people, in all walks of life. He rode with "tankers" at Camp Borden, studied all phases of the air training plan, questioned convoy drivers. Today he gives a close-up of the leader of Canada's war effort.)

By GEORGE H. LYON.

William Lyon Mackenzie King, Canada's Prime Minister, lives in a house of memories.

It is called Laurier House and is situated in Laurier avenue, about two miles out from the business center of Ottawa. It was the home of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, great among Canada's premiers, and was willed to Mr. King by Lady Laurier on her death. Mr. King's attachment to the memory of Sir Wilfrid is deep and moving, second only to his great love for the memory of his mother. When Mr. King dines, Sir Wilfrid looks down upon him from a great portrait in the room. When he sleeps, it is in the room in which Sir Wilfrid died. In the third-floor study, where the Prime Minister does most of his important work, is a portrait of his mother in her later years.

Mr. King told the artist that he cherished two distinct visual memories of his mother—one seated before a fire, the other in the moonlight. These the artist perpetuated with a double lighting which falls upon neck and shoulders and still gives emphasis to the profile. The portrait of a very lovely lady with a definitely spiritual quality, stands on a table beside a small lamp and fresh cut flowers. At the other side of the study is the grand piano which Mr. King's mother played when he was young. He himself does not play, wishes he could.

So, Mr. King, a bachelor, lives alone in this three-story brick dwelling, save for the company of six old and trusted servants, a policeman to keep watch over papers and records, and an English terrier, Pat, who has accompanied his master to the polling booth every time there has been a ballot to make for the Liberal party during the last 18 years. At night he sleeps on a cushion beside Mr. King's bed. The trust of a dog, Mr. King tells his friends, is a very important thing in this world.

Works in Study.

The prime minister spends his mornings working in his study, to which he ascends by an electric elevator. The whole third floor is virtually given over to his offices, a file room and a small reception room leading off the study. Here is the real nerve center of the Dominion government. The study is a comfortable, homey room, 18 by 30 feet, with a long davenport facing the fireplace and behind it a long refectory table. The artist's palette surmounts the portrait of Mrs. King and there are fresh flowers on the piano. Built-in bookcases cover two walls. Beside the fireplace is a heavy mitten which Mr. King wears when he chucks on a fresh piece of coal.

Mr. King, who thinks that he can work more efficiently in his study than he can on parliament hill, calls in a drove of secretaries early and works them hard—though no harder than he works himself. At noon, his chauffeur drives him over to his official office in a Buick and he meets with his cabinet. When parliament is in session, he takes a front bench in commons at 3 p. m. and often again at 8 p. m.

In addition to his official office in the east block of parliament he has another large office just off commons and a small hideaway for confidential conferences in another part of the building. When he is finished at commons, he goes home and usually works late. Except for his immediate colleagues he sees very few people, but he always knows what's going on. Ardent admirers maintain he has a sixth sense which may be a modified gift of prophecy or purely intuition.

Up to a few years ago the prime minister rode horses, but now his only relief from the official grind is an occasional trip to his farm, Kingsmere, 20 miles back in the Gatineau Hills. Here he surveys his considerable flock of purebred sheep, chops at a tree or sits by a small stream in fair weather and reads poetry aloud to his friends. (He quotes much verse in parliament.)

Good Tobacco, Wine, Whisky. To his friends Mr. King serves good tobacco and wine and whisky. At dinner, when parliament is in session, he sips ginger ale while others enjoy stronger drinks. When the session is over he may take an occasional cocktail. He likes good food and eats with a relish.

Some Canadians described the prime minister to me—this was before I met him—as a recluse and a monk. I do not think this is accurate. It is true that he conserves his time for the state's business, but he has told friends that sometimes he'd give a lot to "get around the way Willie does."

He is a deeply religious man—a Presbyterian—reads his Bible and seeks Divine guidance daily. One of his most moving speeches to the Canadian people contained this passage: "If I were called upon to sacrifice one of my life all save one of the influences of the past, or of my present possessions, the one thing I would wish to retain is the influence of the Christian training of my childhood days. That has been a sheet anchor through life. . . . The time has come when to save our Christian civilization we must be prepared to lay down our lives for its preservation."

Affable, Charming Host. I had been told in Washington before I went to Canada that I probably would not be able to see Mr. King, that he was a very busy man and not overly fond of newspaper people. So during my last week in Ottawa an invitation to be his dinner guest in Laurier House came as a surprise. I found him an affable and charming host. A conversation in his study which lasted well toward midnight gave me a much clearer insight into the man and his problems, and I came away with the impression while his may not be the more spectacular methods of a Roosevelt or a Churchill, he shares fully their indomitable courage.

It was agreed in the beginning that, since the prime minister of Canada—like the President of the United States—does not give exclusive newspaper interviews, our conversation should be strictly off the record. I think, however, that Mr. King would not object if I recounted two incidents which occurred during my evening at Laurier House. The butler had just served coffee in the high-paneled dining room and switched off the lights. Four short tapers in a silver candelabrum cast off shadows. Mr. King was talking very quietly and very slowly. One by one the candles flickered and went out until only a single taper lighted the painting of Sir Wilfrid Laurier high on the wall. Mr. King continued speaking but his gaze was seldom diverted from the portrait. Finally the last candle began to flicker. We sat in silence. Then the candle went out. Mr. King had not mentioned the name of Laurier. There was no need. He still lives in that house.

Before I left Laurier House several hours later, the prime minister took me down to his second-floor bedroom. We found Pat asleep on a cushion beside the bed. He got up and stretched. His age was apparent, but there was a fine bright look in his old eyes. Mr. King reached down to pat him and then crossed to a small table on which was a plate of crackers, near it a picture of the royal family. Mr. King nibbled a cracker, gave three to Pat. He reached down, tucked the dog in a rug and patted him on the head again. Then he closed the door quietly behind us.

(This article was written in the U. S. and not subject to censorship. While in Canada I talked with a number of censors and gained a thorough knowledge of their problems. Because I do not wish to furnish any information of military value to the Axis powers, I have endeavored in writing these pieces to conform to the Canadian censorship. For this reason many names of persons, ships, places and dates are purposefully omitted.—George Lyon.)

Steve, Loreli Solve Mystery On 'Big Town'

Edward G. Robinson Stars in Popular Radio Dramatic Program.

Edward G. Robinson, as Steve Wilson, the crusading managing editor of the "Illustrated Press," will run into new difficulties tonight when his chief heart interest, Loreli, resigns from the paper when a third party comes between her and Steve. (WGST at 7 o'clock.)

"Murder Will Out," a comedy-drama, will be tonight's vehicle. The opening curtain will find Steve and Loreli investigating the murder of a taxi dancer. But when one of the large stockholders orders Steve to hire his debutante daughter as a reporter for the paper, Steve has to drop the murder investigation to patch up things with Loreli.

Loreli, in the meantime, quits the paper and takes it upon herself to solve the mystery alone. She poses as a member of the dancing profession, only to find herself in a very dangerous situation. Then Steve comes to the rescue. One Munson, as usual, will play the part of Loreli Killborn.

POOR MORTIMER FOUND IN THE LINGERIE SHOP

When Mortimer, meek-voiced star of the "Meet Mr. Meek" program goes out to buy his niece a housecoat, all goes well until Agatha, the wife, runs across Mortimer in the lingerie shop. Fighting his way through the intimacies of the women's apparel department isn't so tough for Mortimer, but when Agatha reminds him he doesn't have a niece, he really is put to shame.

All in all, it's a tough situation for Mortimer, but he manages to get out of it and covers himself with glory—as well as a housecoat. The program will be heard over WGST at 6:30 o'clock.

HENRY ALDRICH GUEST ON TIME TO SMILE AT 8

Henry Aldrich will be on stage tonight when Eddie "Banjo Eyes" Cantor raises the curtain on his Barter theater during the "Time to Smile" program to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock.

Ezra Stone (Henry) was so much help to Eddie when the latter was warding off bandits on his program last December that the young star of the "Aldrich Family" is returning to help Cantor dodge the vegetables in his "carrots for cash" theatrical endeavor.

Adelaide Moffatt, society chanteuse, will be a second guest.

Georgia Cotton Reduction Too Heavy - Linder

U. S. Control Program Unfair to Southeast, Is Charge.

Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder asserted yesterday that since the start of the federal government's cotton control program "the total reduction in cotton acreage has been put upon" Georgia and other southeastern states.

In an editorial in the Market Bulletin, Linder said that "Georgia's acreage has been reduced approximately 60 per cent. This is far more than any other one state. Yet today cotton growers of Georgia are being asked to still further reduce their crops."

The agriculture commissioner complained that while Georgia cotton farmers are being induced to grow less cotton the government is buying 132,000 bales of cotton in Brazil than it is in the United States.

He added that Georgia farmers were producing everything their allotments would permit, "yet they are unable to make ends meet and many of them are losing their homes." He said cotton would have to sell for 20 cents a pound to give growers the same purchasing power they had from 1909 to 1913.

Dr. Gallup Says: 'Cooling Off' Period Is Favored

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 29.—Michigan's 30-day "cooling off" period for labor disputes, which was invoked in the General Motors-CIO fight, is a piece of strike legislation approved in principle by a majority of American voters polled in a nation-wide survey.

Following the national strike crisis of several weeks ago, a flood of bills for the control of strikes appeared in Washington.

The American Institute of Public Opinion conducted a nation-wide study in which a cross-section of voters was interviewed from coast to coast between April 10 and 20 on two aspects of proposed legislation.

The results of the first part of the study follow:

"When workers in a factory working on defense contracts vote to go on strike, do you think they should be required by law to wait for 60 days before the strike can start?"

Yes ..... 89%

No ..... 11%

Fewer than one voter in every 12 (8 per cent) expressed no opinion on this issue.

The second part of the study covered the following issue:

"A bill has been proposed which would treat any worker who goes on strike in a defense industry as a traitor, to be punished by one year in prison. Would you like to see congress pass such a law?"

Those with opinions voted in the following manner:

Yes ..... 37%

No ..... 63%

Approximately one voter in every 10 (9 per cent) expressed no opinion.

It will be noted that, although the cooling off period is popular, there is substantial public opposition to prison penalties for workers just because they go on strike.

At present congress is considering the Vinson bill which provides a 25-day cooling off time before a strike can be called in defense industries. The Vinson bill also provides criminal penalties for strikes called before the cooling off period.

With today's sizable vote against prison penalties, it is likely that if the public alone had the power to decide, the Vinson bill would not meet with approval unless modified in its proposal for criminal penalties.

There can be little question, however, that the bill's proposal for a cooling off period is strongly popular.

The Institute survey found that even among industrial labor union members reached in the poll the cooling off idea is favored.

Fulton Schools Face R.O.T.C. Of Lindbergh Inspections Is Accepted

Captain Benjamin Holt Making Rounds Here This Week.

Annual military inspection of the R. O. T. C. units of the Fulton county high school is being held this week. Captain L. L. Deck, professor of military science and tactics of the county, announced.

Captain Benjamin J. Holt, professor of military science and tactics at Lanier High school, Macon, is inspecting officer and yesterday inspected the R. O. T. C. at Fulton High school. Inspection will be held today at West Fulton High, Thursday at North Fulton High and Friday at Russell High in East Point.

A ceremonial parade will be staged by the units at each school at 1:30 each afternoon, following a day of demonstrations of the military ability of the various companies. The high school soldiers will perform mass calisthenics, close order and extended drills, first aid demonstrations, and will stand oral and written examinations.

Dietitians Meet Here Saturday

The eighth annual meeting of the Georgia Dietetics Association will be held at the Henry Grady hotel Saturday, May 3. Miss Eleanor Kellow, president of the association, will preside. The work of the association this year has dealt with the dietitians' part in national defense and the program for the day is centered around nutrition in connection with the defense program. Speakers of the day will include Miss Gladys E. Hall, educational director of the American Dietetics Association, Chicago; Miss Marie Casteele, of the Hotels Statler Co., Inc., New York; Miss Laurine Collier, University of Georgia, Athens; Dr. Champ Holmes, Atlanta; and Dr. Richard Hackney, board of health, Atlanta.

Resignation Of Lindbergh Is Accepted

Early Wonders If Famous Aviator Returned Hitler's Decoration.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(P) The War Department accepted Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's resignation from the Air Corps Reserve today and the White House simultaneously took two more thrusts at that famous aviator and critic of administration foreign policy.

Stephen Early, the President's secretary, said the resignation made him wonder whether Lindbergh returned "to Mr. Hitler" a German decoration conferred upon him several years ago. Early also took the flyer to task for issuing his letter of resignation to the press before it had been received by the President.

The resignation followed a press conference statement by Mr. Roosevelt grouping Lindbergh with appeasers of the Revolutionary War and the copperheads of the Civil War period.

This, the flyer said, impugned his loyalty, character and motives, and left him "no honorable alternative" except to resign his reserve commission. His announcement was made and his letter given to the press yesterday in New York.

Early, in commenting on the Lindbergh letter of resignation, said it was the second time a letter from the flyer to the White House was made public before it reached the recipient. The first instance, he explained, was several years ago when he protested the President's action in ordering a general cancellation of air mail contracts following the disclosures of a senate investigating committee.

One correspondent remarked to Early that the resignation raised a "nice" question because, if accepted, it might open the way for conscientious objectors to avoid service of any kind. Lindbergh, the reporter said, would have no duties to perform in the event of war.

"The President," Early answered, "indicated that he wouldn't have any duties if he continued to hold his commission. Now there's a commission some one else can have."

The letter was received later in the day and referred at once to the War Department, where the resignation was accepted. It was explained that, while policy has been to reject resignations during the present emergency, Secretary Stimson has discretionary power to accept it or not.

Pelham To Have Farmer Market

Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder said yesterday arrangements had been worked out for the immediate opening of a new state farmers' market at Pelham.

Charles Henson, of Hazlehurst, he added, has been assigned to supervise management of the market, which, with the Atlanta market, will be the seventh to be placed in operation in the state.

The new market in Atlanta, designed to be one of the largest in the southeast, probably will be opened for business about May 10, Linder said. The other markets are at Macon, Thomasville, Valdosta, Claxton and Glennville.

City To Salvage Cans in Garbage

The Atlanta sanitary department yesterday laid the groundwork for salvaging tin cans collected in city garbage to add another $20,000 annually to the city's income.

Members of the sanitary committee empowered Mayor LeCraw, H. J. Cates, chief of the sanitary department, and Councilman Paul Butler, sanitary committee chairman, to negotiate a contract with a Tennessee company through which the tin cans, formerly dumped in gutters around the city, may be sold on a long-term contract.

Dictionaries, here's a new word—HYDRO-FORMING!

Americans, here's an entirely new way of making gasoline—destined to give a new definition to power!

In the modern gun, with today's propellant powders, greater power is achieved because the flame is controlled—pressure is built up behind the shell. The old cannon wasted power in violent, uncontrolled explosion.

The word is so new it isn't in the dictionary yet—but you'll hear it a lot from now on. From a revolutionary new refining process—Hydro-forming—comes a new gas that steps up all old ideas of what gas can do—of how much work per drop it can turn out!

For Hydro-formed American Gas solves the problem in an entirely new manner, releasing more power because it burns in a different way.

Now Comes Flame Control—Combustion Control!

Burning gasoline vapor is the source of engine power. How it burns tells how much will be used, and how much wasted.

Old-fashioned gasolines burn with an explosive, violent shock, and much of the power is lost in wasteful detonation. But if that flame—combustion—can be controlled, we achieve power with less violent shock—usable driving power, not wasted power.

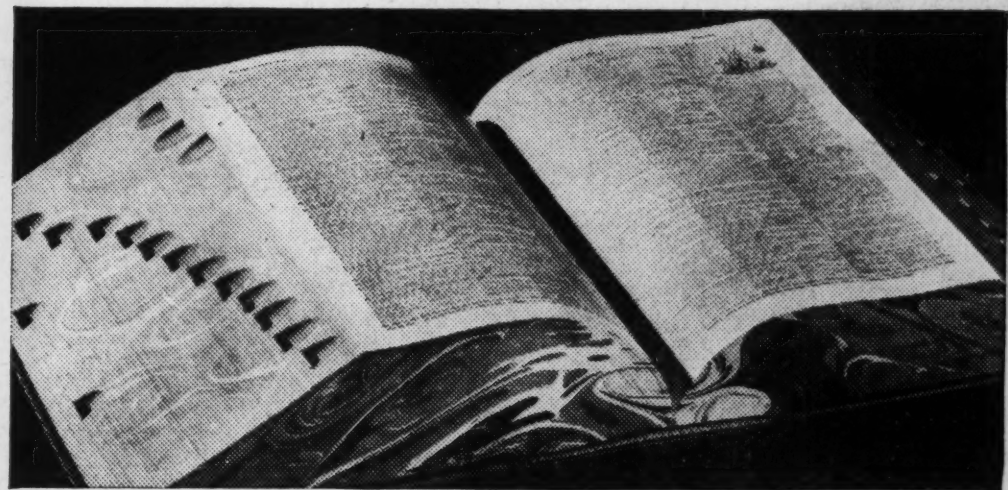

This is exactly what FLAME CONTROL accomplishes—now attained in Hydro-formed American Gas! Combustion IS controlled. We have power—sustained, increasing, e-x-p-a-n-d-i-n-g pressure on the pistons—dynamic thrust that reaches for more of the potential energy in every atom of gasoline. But shock is greatly reduced.

Flame Control Means Cushioned Power!

As violent, detonating shock is cut down, Cushioned Power replaces it. We retain all the energy of the combustion, yet we have a soft, sustained, cushioned surge of power. Motors are s-m-o-o-t-h, obedient, yet thoroughly alive with action. Destructive blows on bearings and other delicate motor parts are hushed, and in their place comes a satin-soft f-l-o-w of power.

Increased Volatility Makes Better Road Octane!

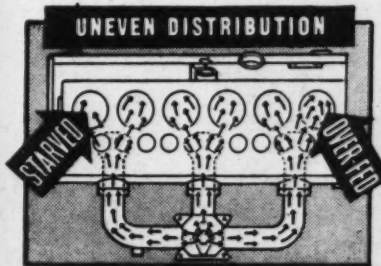

Hydro-formed American Gas is more volatile, more aromatic, more easily vaporized. Its anti-knock constituents do not remain in a liquid state as in the average conventional gasolines, but become vaporized—distributed more evenly and impartially to all cylinders alike.

Official results of road tests by Industry Committees show that conventional gasolines, on the average, lose octanes on the road. Hydro-formed American Gas actually gains them—surpassing laboratory figures. And it's road octane that counts, not laboratory ratings!

Hydro-formed AMERICAN GAS Still At Regular Gas Price!

Here's the frequent result of poor gasoline distribution—some cylinders get too much—some too little. Result—poor performance.

Hydro-formed American Gas is distributed more evenly and impartially to all cylinders alike. Result—less waste, more usable power.

You don't have to be a chemist to realize the tremendous importance of this discovery, pioneered by the American Oil Company. Yet in spite of all these amazing improvements—in spite of the new power now available, this latest discovery of gasoline chemistry still sells at regular gas price!

Famous AMOCO-GAS

Now Hydro-formed, Too!

The new Hydro-forming process has also been applied to Amoco-Gas, the original special motor fuel, which likewise moves forward and upward to an all-time high in quality and efficiency.

A new and greater source of power—a new and greater motoring pleasure—a thrilling experience—all these await you in Hydro-formed American Gas and Amoco-Gas.

Now try the latest triumph of gasoline science—
New Hydro-formed AMERICAN GAS.

Still at
gas price!

...another discovery pioneered by the American Oil Co.
